"The little road, like me,
Would seek and turn and know;
And forth I must, to learn the things
The little road would show."

That testing disk at the Bureau of Standards that has been ground down to one five-millionth of an inch can now appreciate just how Bucky Harris' flattened hirlings felt after yesterday's game.

The President is invited to pitch the tent of the Summer Capital in Duluth, but in the language of an historic phrase, "Where is Duluth?"
Boy, page Proctor Knott.

Dr. A. J. Barton gravely informs the Harrell committee that it would be just as logical to change the law against murder as to alter the Volstead act, but what does a man who thinks shooting your wife and drinking a cocktail are equal crimes know about logic?

Gen. Harbord dogtags a $1,000 check across the Atlantic from London to New York by wireless. How tantalizing it will be to the radio fans when this system is in daily operation and the air is full of money that you can't grab as it whizzes by.

The resolution of an Illinois Republican Congressman—who has just read the hand-writing on Senator McKinley's wall—to deny any appropriation for American participation in the League World Court, may not get any further than a wet Senator at Mr. Harrell's hearing, but it calls attention to the fact that the appropriating power of the House gives it a treaty-making function even stronger than that generally monopolized by the Senate.

The Washington Symphony Orchestra makes a big noise in musical circles, but where is our Henry L. Higginson?

Aren't the Piedmont space writers a little late this season with their announcement that the Georgia peach crop has been ruined?

It certainly looks as though Mrs.
Alfred H. Brossau hasn't much more opposition for the nomination than President Coolidge has.

The D. A. R. will elect seven Vice Presidents. Gosh! suppose they all wanted to change the rules!

The cheese-parers in the House insist that Washington taxpayers shall bear the whole cost of Rock Creek park extension, with a narrowness of vision which shames their more enlightened predecessors, who made the National Capital what it is today, a beautiful city belonging to all the American people; but that's no reason why the citizens' committee should propose representation in Congress—there is no folly like trying to cure one evil with another.

"Three weeks we westward bore,
And when the storm was o'er,
Cloud-like we saw the shore, Stretching to leeward."

And now another Arctic expedition, to determine whether Longfellow's Viking was a myth or the first European to discover America, and gather evidence a little more substantial than the poet's skeleton in armor.

A lot of ladies from out of town will tell a mass meeting tonight what kind of a mother's pension law the taxpayers of the District should have, but are we to understand that they are going to try to attend to our affairs for us without the assistance of Sophie Irene Loeb?

What earthly good would one Congressman from the District be in that deadly provincial House of Representatives to anybody but the politician foxxy enough to land the job and grab the salary?

Mauna Loa, after six days of strenuous labor, knocks off for the customary day of rest. What this world needs is an eight-hour day for volcanoes.

Representative O'Connor opines there are so many bootleggers in Washington that nobody could tell Pennsylvania avenue from a Louisiana bayou.

The celebration of the "Eternal City's" 2,680th birthday reminds us that she wasn't built in a day—or even a week—as the frenzied populace, intent upon a return to Empire, "and the grandeur that was Rome"—as Poe put it—prepare the laurel wreath for Muss. Ave Caesar!
"Touch'd by thy hand, again" (says Mr. Pope) "Rome's glories shine;
"War gods"—d godlike heroes rise to view,
"And all her faded garlands" (let us hope!) "bloom anew."

DR. WHITE ADMITS JOINT BANK ACCOUNT HELD WITH FENNING

Says Commissioner and He Engage in Large Mortgage Business.

NAMES HIM GUARDIAN FOR FREE LEGAL AID

Records Show Official Has Received Bulk of Fees
Since 1920.

Dr. W. A. White, superintendent of St. Elizabeth's hospital, admitted last night that he and Commissioner Frederick A. Fenning maintain a joint bank account. Appearing before the special investigating subcommittee of the House District committee, Dr. White testified that the account is maintained in the National Security & Savings Bank, of which the commissioner is a director.

This bank is also the depository for the funds of the commissioner's wards.

The subcommittee, headed by Representative Gibson, of Vermont, and composed of Representatives
Bowman, West Virginia; Houston, Delaware; Blanton, of Texas, and Gilbert, of Kentucky, held its hearing behind closed doors. It has no relation to the impeachment proceedings and the closed session was decided upon yesterday morning.

Always Recommends Fenning.

The commissioner and hospital superintendent are engaged in an extensive business of dealing in second mortgages and other real estate paper, Dr. White testified, and the funds of this partnership are deposited to the joint bank account.

The account had been kept formerly in another bank, but when the commissioner left the directorate of that institution and became a director of the National Security and Savings Bank, the account was transferred, Dr. White testified.

So far as he could recall he had never recommended any guardian other than Mr. Fenning, he said, the commissioner now having 95 wards at the hospital.

Asked why he always named Mr.
Fenning in the lunacy petitions, Dr.
White said:

"Well, for one thing, I can call him up any time and get free legal advice."

It is not known why the committee proceeded in closed session. A public stenographer took down a report of the testimony. Both Mr.
Gibson and Mr. Bowman wanted to admit newspaper men, but Mr. Gilbert and Mr. Blanton objected. Mr.
Houston was not present to break the tie.

At the White House it was made known that the President is continuing his hands-off policy. He was

KLAN FOES CONTROL NEW HERRIN COUNCIL

Elect 3 of 4 Councilmen at Perceful Balloting Under Control of Troops.

Herrin, Ill., April 20 (By A. P.).
In one of the most peaceful elections ever held in this faction-torn city, three anti-klan and one klan candidate were elected to aldermanic offices today.

Infantrymen of the Illinois national guard with drawn bayonets guarded the four polling places, but not a single untoward incident was reported.

Complexion of the Herrin city council as a result of today's election will be two klan votes and six anti-klan, including Mayor McCormack.

Previously the councilmen had been divided, four klan and four anti-klan.

Mexican Expulsions Are Indorsed by Klan

(By Associated Press.)
Resolutions from the Ku Klux Klan at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., indorsing the action of Mexico in expelling ministers and missionaries, Protestant and Catholic, for refusal to abide by certain provisions of the Mexican constitution, were presented to the Senate yesterday by Senator Fletcher (Democrat), Florida.
They also advised Americans to go to some other country if unwilling to obey the eighteenth amendment.

Man Orders 2 Coffins; Kills Wife; Is Captured

Nashville, Tenn., April 20 (By A. P.).—Walter Sharp, 42, a theater employee, telephoned an undertaker early today to send two coffins, as he was going to kill himself and his wife. The undertaker sent two policemen.
They found the wife, Mrs. Fay Kline Sharp, 40, dead, and Sharp in the basement of his home with a pistol in his hand.
Sharp said he shot his wife at her request, after ten years of married life, and added:
"If I had not left that fool door open for the undertaker I would have bumped myself off."
Sharp told police he expected to go to the electric chair, and only regretted having to wait several months.
Police reported that Sharp was drunk when they arrived at the home but the prisoner insisted he was not.

APPROVAL OF ITALIAN SETTLEMENT EXPECTED

Senate Leaders, However, Fear Strong Opposition Before Vote Today.

IS ASSAILED BY HARRISON

Believing that the Italian debt funding bill will be approved by a majority of from 12 to 15 on a final vote at 4 p. m. today, administration leaders last night nevertheless became fearful that the opposition may develop unexpected strength on a motion to send the measure back to the finance committee.

The motion to recommit will furnish the first test today when under a unanimous consent agreement all debate will end.

As the situation now stands not more than fifteen out of the 55 Republican senators will vote either for a motion to recommit or against the debt bill. There are many Democrats, however, who will vote for the motion to recommit but if that means defeat, they will line up for ratification of the debt commission's agreement.

Opponents of the Italian debt funding arrangement claimed last night that they are within two votes of enough to send the bill back to committee.

The impression prevailed that the motion to recommit would be defeated by a fairly close vote and that then the bill would be passed by a comfortable margin.

Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, assailed the Italian agreement during yesterday's debate in the Senate.

Ratification of the debt settlement with Italy was urged by the executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in a letter to members of the Senate.

Henry Miller's Will Disinherits One Son

New York, April 20 (By A. P.).
Henry Miller, the actor-producer, who died April 9, disinherited his son, Henry Miller, Jr., from a share in his estate by not mentioning him in the will, filed for probate today. Henry, Jr., is serving a six-months prison sentence in California for narcotics law violations.
After providing that Helen Miller, his widow, receive a $3,000 annuity, the actor bequeathed half the residue to four grandchildren and the remainder to his other son, Gilbert, of this city, also named as executor. The value of the estate was given as $35,000.

Policeman Shoots Wife Who Feared Loaded Guns

Policeman Paul McDuffie, former White House guard and now attached to the Fourth precinct, yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, fired five shots at his wife, Mrs.
Norma McDuffie, as she rushed screaming from their home at 333 E street southeast. Four of the shots took effect and Mrs. McDuffie fell unconscious in the front of the home.

Mrs. McDuffie was taken to Providence hospital. She was wounded in both thighs, right knee and hip. Her condition is serious.
McDuffie was arrested by police from the Fifth precinct. He was suspended immediately from the police force and is charged with assault with intent to kill.

According to Capt. William Sanford, of the Fifth precinct, Mrs.
McDuffie has been afraid to leave her husband's loaded revolver lying around the house. Yesterday she found two of his guns and un-

D. A. R. LEADERSHIP LEFT UNDISPUTED TO MRS. BROSSAU

Election Seems Certain as New York Regent Withdraws Name.

MRS. NASH PRAISED FOR AIDING HARMONY

Mrs. A. W. Cook Not to Run
Again; 7 Vice Presidents Will Be Chosen.

Mrs. Charles White Nash, State regent of New York, and the independent candidate for president general of the D. A. R., withdrew her name for that office at the meeting of the thirty-fifth continental congress of the D. A. R., in the auditorium, yesterday morning.

For an instant or two the delegates were so stunned with Mrs.
Nash's action that they could hardly realize what was going on, as Mrs.
Nash read a short statement setting forth her reasons for this action.

That she withdrew in the sake of harmony was emphasized by Mrs.
Nash, who praised Mrs. Alfred H.
Brossau, treasurer general, and the coalition candidate for president general. Mrs. Nash, in her statement, set forth that she had won the consent of her supporters to her action. She pointed out that at this time "complete and absolute harmony and cooperation was necessary for the accomplishment of the work of the society, and that there should be no disharmony or antagonism occasioned by political division. Office seeking at that cost is small, indeed."

Praised for Action.

At the conclusion of Mrs. Nash's remarks, Mrs. Charles B. Bryan, of Tennessee, former vice president general, and offered a resolution of appreciation of Mrs. Nash's action.
This resolution was passed without a dissenting voice and with applause.

The action of Mrs. Nash leaves Mrs. Brossau and her ticket in the field without an opposing candidate, and her election is therefore assured. At the nominations tonight other names for president general and the other offices may be offered, but this is regarded as doubtful.

Mrs. Brossau commented upon Mrs. Nash's action as being "very generous," and expressed appreciation of her action which she indicated was another step toward the harmony in the organization for which the daughters were striving.

Several small changes were made in the Brossau ticket yesterday, but it will appear on the ballots Thursday as follows, according to an official statement from the Brossau headquarters yesterday afternoon:

President general, Mrs. Alfred Brossau, Detroit and Connecticut; chaplain general, Mrs. Matthew Brewster, Louisiana; recording secretary general, Mrs. Samuel William Warle, Illinois; organizing secretary general, Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, Ohio; treasurer general, Mrs. Adam M. Wyant, Pennsylvania; corresponding secretary general, Mrs. Herbert M. Lord, Maine; registrar general, Miss Alice Louise McDuffie, Michigan; reporter general, the Smithsonian Institution, Mrs. Gerald Livingston Schuyler,
Denver, Colo.; librarian general,
Mrs. Horace M. Farnham, Vermont;

Check Sent by Radio Across Ocean Cashed

New York, April 20 (By A.
P.).—The "radio check" for $1,- 000 sent across the ocean by wireless today was received by the Bankers Trust Co. as nonchalantly as though Gen. Harbord had presented it in person.
Payment was held up temporarily for a necessary endorsement, but no hesitation was shown in honoring the check.
London, April 20 (By A. P.).
For the first time in the history of banking a check has been transmitted photographically across the ocean by wireless.

The check was written by Gen.
J. G. Harbord for $1,000, drawn on the Bankers Trust Co. in favor of the Radio Corporation of America, of which Gen. Harbord is president. It was transmitted by the system invented by Capt. Richard H. Ranger, American Ambassador Houghton attended the demonstration of the apparatus.

3 DEAD, 1 DYING, 5 HURT IN BLAST ON SUBMARINE

Battery Explodes on the S-49,
Sister Ship of S-51, Sunk
With Loss of 33.

LIMBS OF MANY BROKEN

New London, Conn., April 20 (By A. P.).—Three members of the crew of 40 men on the submarine S-49, sister ship of the ill-fated S-51, which was sunk last September with the loss of 33 lives, died tonight in the submarine base hospital from injuries received when a battery exploded today. They were Ralph Edward McCormick, gunner's mate second-class, of West Lynn, Mass., Ollie J. Cooke, seaman first class, of Danville, Va., and Theodore Holst, jr., chief boatswain's mate, of Groton, Conn.

Matthew T. Greenville, quartermaster first-class, of Saco, Maine, was reported dying. Five others were in a serious condition. These were Frederick F. Horn, boatswain's mate second-class, Freehold, Pa.;
Daniel Ford, seaman first-class, Boston; Sylvester E. Mattlock, fireman, second-class, Charleston, Ill.; Claire D. Fellds, electrician's mate second-class, Reno, Nev., and Francis Leo Conway, torpedoman second-class, Dracut, Mass. Basil S. Morris, fireman third-class, Asheville,
N. C., received minor injuries.

The explosion produced a tremendous concussion which hurled the dozen men in the steel-walled compartment against the side of the chamber.

The submarine base fire alarm was sounded, bringing scores of men to the scene, equipped with gas masks. The rescuers dropped into the submarine and carried out their injured comrades.

Naval officials declined to reveal the nature of the injuries of the men, but it is known that all of them sustained broken arms and legs and possible internal injuries.

PRIEST FOUND SLAIN; WAS FLORES' FRIEND

Father Esparragoza Slain; Body Across Couch in Home in Mexico.

Nogales, Ariz., April 20 (By A.
P.).—Father Gregorio Esparragoza, Catholic curé of Badiraguato, Sinaloa, Mexico, and intimate friend of the late Gen. Flores, was found murdered in his bed Sunday, says a special dispatch to the Herald today from Mazatlan, Sinaloa. For several years Father Esparragoza was private secretary to Gen. Flores and knew his political life as few others did.

An ejected .30-30-caliber cartridge shell and footprints leading to the window of the curé's house and from there into the brush on the edge of town are the only clues police have to work on. The body was found stretched across his couch.
The murder occurred Sunday evening shortly after the priest had concluded late services and had retired to his home, continues the dispatch. The shot attracted the attention of neighbors, who found the half-clad body.

Banker Saves $50,000 Of $75,000 in Holdup

Chicago, April 20 (By A. P.).— Kasper Schmidt, assistant cashier of the Prudential State Savings Bank, 2 miles from the downtown business district, was held up, beaten by three men and robbed of $25,000 this afternoon.
Schmidt was lured into a hallway next door. He saved $50,000 in negotiable bonds by throwing them down a staircase.

U. S., SAYS KELLOGG, STRIVING FOR PEACE IN LATIN AMERICA

Interest in Disputes Is Based Upon Desire for Good Will.

AID PLEDGED TOWARD CUT IN NAVAL ARMS

Addressing Associated Press
Luncheon, He Outlines American Policies.

New York, April 20 (By A. P.).
The United States' interest in controversies among Latin-American states arises from "a sincere desire that good will shall reign supreme," Secretary of State Kellogg said today at the annual luncheon of the Associated Press.

Disarmament, he said, was of greater value than "ambitious projects," which, though "excellent in theory," fail to take an account of actual problems.

Mr. Kellogg was the chief speaker on a program which included Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press and publisher of the Washington Star; Jorge A.
Mitre, of La Nación, of Buenos Aires, and Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, who also made a speech of greeting to visiting Latin-American journalists in Spanish.

Mr. Kellogg said that the government "can only accomplish its purpose with the cordial backing of the greater majority of the American people."

U. S. Policies Explained.

This backing, he continued, "is only obtainable when the press is able to treat these questions with understanding and comprehension of the broad lines which the government has pursued."

Considering in turn China, Turkey and South America, Mr. Kellogg elaborated on the third in a complete explanation of the motives which underlie the participation of the United States in the problems of the South American continent.

"We are remote from the historical controversies that trouble the continent of Europe," the speaker said. "We are, however, particularly interested in the settlement of all the controversies between the American states; not directly, but through a sincere desire that good will shall reign supreme between these countries."

Mr. Kellogg then revealed that after he had learned that Chile and Peru desired to effect the Tacarica settlement through other means than a plebiscite, he suggested that he would be "happy to use his good offices." He said that he is now endeavoring to effect a settlement of the dispute through the Ambassadors of Chile and Peru in Washington.

On the question of armament limitation, the Secretary of State said the United States government would "welcome an agreement which would complete the work begun in Washington" at the 1921 conference, "particularly as there is danger that the competitive construction which formerly existed, particularly with respect to capital ships, may still be continued, in less aggravated form, it is true, with respect to cruisers and other types of naval craft not dealt with by the Washington Treaties."

Will Aid Disarmament.

Secretary Kellogg pledged in this connection that the delegates from the United States to the preliminary armaments conference in Geneva would "use their influence in favor of disarmament."

COOLIDGE FAVORS STATE MOTION PICTURE CONTROL

President Believes Productions Shown in Europe Have Helped Foreign Trade.

SEES CRITICISM DROP

(By the Associated Press.)
While President Coolidge has given no consideration to congressional proposals for national censorship of motion pictures, he is inclined to believe such control should be exercised by States rather than by the Federal government.

There has been a decrease in criticism of the industry, in his opinion, due in a measure to efforts made by producers to improve productions.

The motion-picture business, it was pointed out at the White House yesterday, has become one of the country's leading industries, and the President feels it should be encouraged by the government in every legitimate way.

Believing that motion pictures are an element in promoting a better understanding between nations,
Mr. Coolidge is of the opinion American producers could increase their public usefulness by giving the public a better insight into conditions abroad by turning out more pictures showing customs and life in other countries.

Exhibition of American films abroad, he believes, has not only given other lands a clearer idea of life in this country, but has served to promote trade.

Duchess of York's First Born Is a Girl

London, Wednesday, April 21
(By A. P.).—A daughter was born to the Duke and Duchess of York at 2:40 o'clock this (Wednesday) morning. The duchess occupied her own childhood bedroom in the town house of her father, the Earl of Strathmore, which added sentiment to the happy event.

The Duke of York is the second son of the British sovereigns. His marriage with Lady Elizabeth Bowes Lyon took place in Westminster Abbey April 4, 1923. This is their first child.

early tonight where they could see Thomas McDermott, one of six men entombed in the Feather river tunnel on Bucks mountain since Saturday. McDermott was uninjured and alive, being protected by timbers from the cave-in. The workers could also hear the voice of James McBride, but they were unable to see him. Six feet of debris separated the rescuers from McDermott at 7:25 o'clock.

REED CLAIMS DRY'S UNFAIR IN CONDUCT OF SENATE HEARING

Pittsburgh Prohibition Chief

as in the committee room, and brought charges of unfairness against two of the dry members of the committee holding hearings on

AUTOIST DIES AFTER LYING BADLY HURT IN PARK ALL NIGHT

W. F. Best, Injured in Plunge of 200 Feet, Cries for Help in Vain.

SLASHES HIS WRISTS SEEKING TO END PAIN

Employee of Interior Department Found in Morning by Horseman.

William Franklin Best, 36 years old, of 172 Uhlend terrace northeast, who was found yesterday morning lying beside his wrecked automobile, which had plunged 150 feet down a steep embankment from "Snake road" in Rock Creek park, Monday night, died last night in Emergency hospital.

Best received a dislocated hip, lacerations of the neck and wrists, a broken leg, several broken ribs, exposure and possible internal injuries.

Driving slowly around the treacherous curves down the steep incline of "Snake road" about 8 o'clock Monday night, Best, before he died, said he glanced aside for a moment. When his eyes returned to the road he saw a sharp curve directly in front of him. He twisted the wheel of his automobile, but it was too late. The machine plunged over the embankment.

It struck a large tree after it had fallen almost 150 feet. The force of the impact threw Best from the car and knocked him uncon-

AUTO AFTER 150-FOOT DROP IN ROCK CREEK PARK

Wrecked automobile of William Franklin Best, found yesterday after a drop of 150 feet from the Snake Hill road Monday night in Rock Creek park. Inset shows Mr. Best, 36 years old, of 172 Uhlend terrace northeast, who died last night.

scious. The automobile was demolished. When he regained consciousness, Best said he found that he was bleeding profusely from a deep gash in his neck. He was unable to move his right leg and had a terrible pain in his side.

By lying on his back he could see the lights of automobiles winding their way around the Snake road. He immediately shouted for help, but his voice was weak from loss of blood and was drowned by the roar of the motors. The automobiles passed over the road above with monotonous frequency and at each Best would shout only to watch it disappear.

Soon as the hours passed the automobiles disappeared and Best was left alone in the park. The little clumps of woods in which he lay where dark and cold and the chill air from the creek nearby penetrated his overcoat.

The pain by this time had become almost unbearable. His throat was sore and hoarse from shouting. At times he became hysterical and thoughts of his wife and two children who were waiting for him to come home filled his mind. At the foot of the embankment he saw a path which he thought might be a road. Disregarding the agonies caused by the broken ribs and leg, he rolled 150 feet down the hillside and stopped at a bridge path.

At intervals during the night he cried weakly for help until at last the pain became so intense he felt he would die. In an attempt to end his suffering he secured a small pocketknife from his pocket and slashed one of his wrists. It would end his agonies quicker, he thought.

Shortly before 9 o'clock yesterday morning he was found lying in a pool of blood by Representative F. M. Davenport, of New York, an ardent horseman, who was taking his morning canter through the park. Mr. Davenport summoned Park Policemen R. B. Jenkins and A. E. Croissant, who had the man taken to Emergency hospital.

Mrs. Best said her husband was an employee of the Interior Department and in his spare time managed a print shop at 311 H street northeast. He was returning from the home of A. E. POLICE CHARGE AMIS WITH 17 ROBBERIES Man Said to Have Confessed to Numerous Holdups in Southwest.

Seventeen housebreakings and robberies were cleared up yesterday, police say, when Detective F. A. Schenck, of the Fourth precinct, arrested John Amis, 23 years old, a roomer at 638 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, who is said to have confessed.

Schenck met Amis on Seventh near F streets southwest. Amis attracted the detective's attention by his suspicious actions, police say. Schenck and a detail of Fourth precinct police were searching the neighborhood for a man who held up a lunch room at Third and B streets southwest.

A search of Amis' quarters disclosed alleged burglar tools, clippings from newspapers concerning robberies and holdups, and $28 in silver. Amis had $87 on his person. At first the police thought they had captured the hold-up man who had robbed the lunch room of $3.87. Later they were more than satisfied with their capture. The majority of cases to which Amis confessed were in Southwest Washington and covered a period of two months.

TWO KILLED IN FALLS FROM NEW BUILDINGS

Workmen Drop to Death at Harrington Annex and Carlton Hotel.

Two men were killed yesterday when they fell from buildings being constructed at Twelfth and E streets and Sixteenth and K streets northwest.

August Almquist, 51 years old, of 5493 Holmead place northwest, was killed when he stepped into an open elevator shaft while working on the new Hotel Harrington annex at Twelfth and E streets northwest. He fell from the second floor to the basement, breaking his neck. He was pronounced dead at Emergency hospital.

Louis Jackson, colored, 25 years old, 927 Goeden street southwest, while working on the Carlton hotel, at Sixteenth and K streets northwest, fell from the seventh floor to the ground. He died at Emergency hospital.

Reports from the colleges indicate great interest in Economics.

Reminds us our own studies in Clothing Economy are proving mighty popular with lots of men!

If the class will come to order, Prof. Rogers Peet will merely point out that it is better economy to buy a good suit of clothes at a fair price than a poor suit at a cheap price. The proof is, you won't have to buy good suits as often.

All our suits are good as we can make 'em; when you buy 'em you can pay as high as $75, but you can get whacking good values as low as $35. And they're economical at any price.

Burglars Burn Suit And Rob Physician

Awakened early yesterday by the odor of burning cloth, Dr. G. F. Arnold, 1375 Monroe street northwest, investigated and found that burglars had paid him a visit and burned a suit of his clothing in the furnace.

The intruders made away with the physician's watch, a hypodermic needle and a set of hypodermic tubes, valued at approximately $60. They had taken the suit from a bannister on the second floor, where it was hanging. Entrance was gained by cutting a hole in the cellar door.

STUDY OF NORSE RUINS IN LABRADOR PLANNED

No Sailors Will Be Aboard the Bowdoin; Schooner Yacht Will Follow.

Chicago, April 20 (By A. P.).—Nine scientists, led by Commander Donald MacMillan, American arctic explorer, will journey to the frozen north this summer to collect for the Field Museum of Natural History here specimens of animal and plant life in the sub-arctic region.

The expedition, financed by Frederick H. Rawson, arctic banker, will also study the record of man in Labrador and in Baffinland, pausing in Labrador, South Greenland and Baffinland to uncover, if it can, evidences of Norse habitation during the tenth century, and in Baffinland to gather specimens of Eskimo civilization.

Announcement of the venture made today by D. C. Davies, director of the Field Museum, named the voyage as the MacMillan-Rawson subarctic expedition of the Field Museum. The expedition will be on the schooner Bowdoin, a 30-foot craft which will yield specimens of zoological, geological, anthropological and botanical value to the museum, now lacking in exhibits of subarctic life. Every member of the party will be an expert on research of the sort for which the expedition is sponsored. Alfred C. Wood, assistant curator of fishes, and Ashby Hine, bird taxidermist and collector, will represent the museum directly, while Dr. Walker Koelz, of the Federal Fisheries Bureau, pathologist, and a number of other outside scientists will be members of the party under commission of the museum. Among these will be an ornithologist, a biologist and a geologist, named by Stanley Field of the museum. All will make the Bowdoin their base, going ashore for specimens.

The phase of the research, which will delve into evidence of early Norse discovery of the North Atlantic continent, will be pressed in arctic lands, where Eskimo mythology tells of a hardy race which visited the North a thousand years ago and explored the coast of North America 300 years before Columbus.

Comparison of findings in Labrador will be made with Norse ruins of Greenland, in an effort to ascertain whether Norsemen may have penetrated to the North American coast line.

The wide variation of customs of Eskimo life make the possibilities great, museum officials say, for addition of important exhibits from Baffinland to the museum's collection of information and specimens of Eskimo life and culture.

In the wake of the Bowdoin on its northern voyage will be the Sachem, a yacht just launched by Rowe B. Metcalf, of Providence, R. I. It may carry a few members of the MacMillan-Rawson party.

The Bowdoin will have its own power plant, will be equipped with sails and will carry radio equipment which will enable it to keep in touch with the civilized world. It will carry no sailors, depending on scientist members of the party and its own commander to guide it to its goal.

A bi-product of the 5,000-mile trip may be the selection of a site in Labrador for a scientific station of the Field Museum, which will continue research for a five-year period.

The MacMillan-Rawson expedition is one of the eleven contemplated into the arctic regions this season by explorers, adventurers and scientists of six nations. Only one expedition, however, besides the MacMillan-Rawson, aims to scientific research. Two have exploration as their motive, while seven are exploiting aircraft as an avenue to the north pole. The trip will be MacMillan's tenth voyage to the arctic since the Peary expedition of 1908-09, of which he was a member.

Reading Now Marquis For Service in India

London, April 20 (By A. P.).—A marquisate, in recognition of the completion of his work during his term of office as viceroy in India, will be bestowed upon the Earl of Reading by King George.

CHURCHILL HOPEFUL FOR TAX ON BETTING

London, April 20 (By A. P.).—Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, in making his annual budget statement next Monday, will explain the present position and future prospects of the negotiations for funding the French debt. Another interesting announcement, if advance hints are to be trusted, will herald a revolution in the official attitude toward betting.

In Great Britain, street betting is illegal, although credit bets with bookmakers and bets on race courses are recognized. The chancellor has lighted upon betting as the most fruitful possibility for a new tax.

A majority of the ministers at first objected, but employing the argument of financial urgency, Mr. Churchill has apparently overcome the cabinet's reluctance, and it is reported that if he does not actually introduce a betting tax in the coming budget, he will recommend it for future use.

DAILY BATTLES RAGE IN CITY OF DAMASCUS

London, April 20 (By A. P.).—Daily fighting in Damascus, near the barricades which the French have erected to exclude the Salafieh and Midan quarters, is reported by the correspondent of the Daily Mail. He says bullets whizzed night and day in these localities, while sudden fusillades sometimes burst even in the heart of the city, the rebellious tribesmen shooting from the houses.

The French troops are described as highly nervous, owing to the difficulty of distinguishing between friend and foe. Many harmless persons have been killed. Recently a vague report that the rebels were approaching led to furious machine gun firing, a number of passers-by being killed.

Sometimes rebels charge through the center of Damascus in daylight, kidnapping wealthy notables and carrying them to the mountains, where they are held for ransom.

B. & O. Will Change New York Terminal

Baltimore, April 20 (By A. P.).—Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, has confirmed reports that the B. & O. will vacate the Pennsylvania passenger terminal in New York on September 1 of this year. Arrangements have been completed for a return of the Baltimore and Ohio to the passenger terminal of the Central Railroad of New Jersey at Jersey City, Mr. Willard said.

The Pennsylvania Railroad's decision that the facilities now used by the B. & O. hereafter will be needed for its own purposes is considered by the B. & O. to be fair and will not be contested before the Interstate Commerce Commission, Mr. Willard added. Termination of the arrangement will not affect B. & O. freight movement.

ROME, ON BIRTHDAY, TO MARK RENEWAL OF ANCIENT GLORY

City, 2,680 Years Old, Will Today Pledge Allegiance to Mussolini's Hopes.

NEW WORKS TO START ON JOYFUL HOLIDAY

Power Utilization Program Coincident With Steps to Restore Ruins.

Rome, April 20 (By A. P.).—The seven hills overlooking the yellow Tiber where 2,680 years ago was founded the city which was to become the mistress of the world, will add another page to their imperial history tomorrow when a million Italians celebrate the birthday of ancient Rome by pledging allegiance to Benito Mussolini as "Caesar of the modern empire."

Symbolic of the link between the ancient and modern empires, the anniversary's principal ceremonies will be two-fold—initiation of the work of carrying out the premier's dream of restoring the city to the splendor it attained under Emperor Augustus, and the launching of a nation-wide program for utilization of the resources not only of the peninsula, but of the African colonies, where old Rome also held sway.

Coming as it does after a fortnight of exceptional excitement, including an attempt upon Mussolini's life and his triumphal march through Tripolitania, the celebration promises a tremendous manifestation of faith in the person and intentions of Italy's supreme leader, and similarly, it will be the occasion for reaffirmation to Mussolini of the fascist determination that the seed of empire shall not fall upon barren soil.

City to Be Illuminated.
One newspaper prints the picture of a Roman eagle casting its shadow over the Mediterranean, with the caption, "Mare Nostrum." Another says: "The head of Caesar has appeared over the seven hills." Still another votes five pages to a review of the glories of ancient Rome, which, it is asserted, can be exceeded.

The program, comprising official, popular, sporting and military ceremonies, will begin early in the morning and end in the evening, when the entire city, particularly all the ancient relics, will be lighted by thousands of incandescent globes and headdress, while a regatta by torchlight will be held on the Tiber.

All shops will be closed, the schools declare a holiday, bands will play all day long, and the bells on Capitol hill will resound frequently.

Standing in the shadow of the Arch of Constantine, the last great Roman emperor, within a stone's throw of the Colosseum, the Palatine and the Roman forum, Mussolini will review a parade of Fascism's hope for the future—the children and young men and women inscribed in its ranks.

Child Defends Premier.
Chicago, April 20 (By A. P.).—The aims of Mussolini have been misinterpreted, Richard Child, former Washington Ambassador to Italy, declared today. He is here to address the Rotary district conference.

"Mussolini has always been careful to emphasize," said Mr. Child, "that the imperialism he preaches is a spiritual imperialism, which means a united people with high ideals. He is endeavoring to put Italy on the path and to take her out of the position in which she has been for years, that of being pulled hither and yon by various powers."

"I don't regard Mussolini as much of a menace. Socialist opinion regards him as such, and it is to the interest of the European powers that he be so regarded."

Leon Errol Injured By Fall on Stage

Chicago, April 20 (By A. P.).—Leon Errol, wobbly-legged comedian of the stage and screen, sustained a painful injury to his ankle during his performance here last night in "Louie the Fourteenth," when he fell in one of the scenes.

Applause of the audience was quieted when Errol made several futile attempts to rise. Members of the company helped him from the stage. Examination revealed a sprain and possible fracture of the left ankle. The show was stopped and Errol was taken to a hospital.

Chicago, April 20 (By A. P.).—Leon Errol, wobbly-legged comedian of the stage and screen, sustained a painful injury to his ankle during his performance here last night in "Louie the Fourteenth," when he fell in one of the scenes.

Applause of the audience was quieted when Errol made several futile attempts to rise. Members of the company helped him from the stage. Examination revealed a sprain and possible fracture of the left ankle. The show was stopped and Errol was taken to a hospital.

HELP FOR DRY LAW, UNALTERED, DENIED BY WOMEN VOTERS

Effective Prohibition, Instead,
Is Approved at League Convention.

$94,030 IS SUBSCRIBED
FOR DEFICIT OF $85,000

Program of Work Adopted for the Next 2 Years Includes 4 Departments.

St. Louis, April 20 (By A. P.).—The National League of Women Voters, in convention here, today refused to commit itself to the minority report opposing modification of the Volstead act and the eighteenth amendment by rejecting a resolution to that effect by a vote of 171 to 79.

The convention, however, with only a few scattering nays, adopted a resolution calling upon Federal, State and local officials to use to the fullest extent the power conferred upon them for the effective establishment of prohibition and recommending civil service "merit" selection of enforcement officers.

Mrs. Maud Wood Park, former national president and league legislative representative before Congress, led the opposition to a minority report which added to the general enforcement resolution the clause "We urge Congress to resist all attempts to undermine or weaken the provisions of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act."

Called Dangerous Precedent. Several of the speakers against this clause indicated their sympathy for it, but declared a dangerous precedent would be established by "snapping" or "hysterical" action. Their refusal to adopt the clause was in line with the policy of national officers to avoid so far as possible controversial matters.

The Pennsylvania delegates, who introduced the resolution with the Volstead clause in it and declined to accept the committee action in striking it out, led the fight for the minority report. A telegram from Carrie Chapman Catt, one of the founders of the league and its first president, was read. Mrs. Catt said: "I support the direct enforcement of the Volstead act. This crisis demands brave deeds."

Most of the national officers and national board voted against the declaration upon the Volstead act. The delegation from Illinois, where a wet and dry United States senatorial election impends, split its vote.

League Entrance Urged. Immediate entrance of the United States into the League of Nations was advocated by Mrs. I. W. Harrison, Lexington, Ky., delegate, here today.

Politics were temporarily abandoned at the finance banquet last night and within an hour an $85,000 deficit of the league had been wiped out by the sale of "citizenship bonds." The total raised was $94,030.

Preceding the whirlwind money campaign, David R. Forgan, prominent Chicago banker, gave a brief lecture on money and credit and told delegates that the youngest voter present would be alive to see the war debts collected.

The league's program of work in the next two years, as adopted by the convention, consists of four departments—efficiency in government, public welfare, government, legal status of women and international cooperation to prevent wars. The departments make recommendations for study by members and for legislation by local, State and Federal assemblies.

Church Regrets Remarks At Senate Dry Hearing

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 20 (By A. P.).—Dr. Samuel Harden Church, president of the Carnegie Institute, in an address tonight before the student council of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, expressed his "deep sorrow" for having said anything in his recent testimony at the prohibition hearing at Washington that would cause pain to you or would give an unwarranted impression to others.

The Carnegie Institute president was quoted as having testified concerning drinking among students in Pittsburgh, was proposed in a resolution offered yesterday by Senator Shipstead (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota. He declared that the strike, which began last October, was "no ordinary strike, but there is something sinister in its circumstances."

It comes at the very period when there is concerted effort to attain the means of peace on the railroad," he said, adding that Mr. Rockefeller, who "owns 25 per cent of the stock of the railroad," should be called "to the bar of public opinion for seeking to avoid a responsibility that is as plain as a pike-staff."

REED CALLS DRY UNFAIR IN HEARING

cluded, and insisting on holding an afternoon session over the protest of a committee member.

Senator Harrell said he had put on the witness, Frederick C. Baird, Federal prohibition administrator at Pittsburgh, because the drys consented to it. Senator Reed, of Missouri, pointed out that this witness was brought to the committee room and heard at the request of Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, and that the latter had openly stated that the business of the Senate was more important than the business of the witness, and that the witness could stay over until today to complete his testimony.

Senator Walsh got the floor. "I would not inject myself in this controversy," he said, "were it not for the fact that the senator from Maryland (Mr. Bruce) has said he couldn't expect any measure of justice from the committee, constituted as it is."

Senator Bruce was on his feet at once. "Why should I have any confidence in the sense of justice of the senator from Montana when from first to last he didn't want any hearing at all?"

"Why should I have any confidence in the sense of justice of the senator from Oklahoma when he has said that he favors penal sentences for any one who operates a still? This was the most extravagant and outrageous speech ever made on the subject of capital punishment advocated for all violators of the Volstead law. When men are so destitute of any sense of proportion, who can have confidence in their sense of justice?"

Harrell Tries to Reply.

"I rise to a point of order," shouted Senator Harrell, drowning out other attempts to get the floor. "Personal privilege. Point of order," continued the senator, who was shouting. "Why the senator please state his point of order?" interrupted Vice President Dawes, when Mr. Harrell started to make a speech in reply to Senator Bruce.

"I am coming to that," shouted Senator Harrell.

"What's the point of order?" again interrupted the Vice President.

Mr. Harrell finally said the point of order was that Mr. Bruce had misrepresented him, as he had referred to stills operated in the presence of women and children.

"That's just what I said," shouted Senator Bruce when Senator Harrell had concluded.

"Personal privilege," again shouted Senator Harrell. "I said a man who said run a distillery in the presence of his family and children ought to be guilty of a felony."

Hearings Resumed.

When the committee resumed at 2 o'clock there were evidences of badly frayed tempers, although Senator Gillett, who has taken little part in the hearings, appeared cool. Senator Reed had a determined look when Senator Harrell recalled Mr. Baird to the stand.

Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the legislative board of the Antislavery league, said he had another witness who had to take a train back at 2:45 and would like Mr. Baird to give way until that hour. Senators Harrell and Walsh said they were inclined to grant the request, but they deferred to Senator Reed, who suggested that Bishop Cannon's witness wait.

"It cuts off the witness entirely," said Bishop Cannon, "as he must take a train back."

"I think our business is quite as important as his," Senator Reed replied and the testimony of Mr. Baird continued. Later on, Edwin A. Olson, the U. S. attorney at Chicago, who was the witness referred to, appeared and testified.

It was Mr. Baird who was referred to by Samuel Harden Church, president of the Carnegie Institute, in his testimony at the prohibition hearing at Washington. Mr. Baird had not been brought to the committee room in the morning. He said that he wished to answer the testimony of Mr. Church.

Denies Testimony.

After some preliminary explanations, Mr. Baird had denied two stories of Mr. Church's, one dealing with a prohibition agent who fired at a supposed bootlegger and hit a pedestrian, and another dealing with the murder of a working man by a prohibition agent.

In the first case, Mr. Baird said, the bullet fired by the prohibition agent did not hit the pedestrian, but merely went in his direction. In the second case, he claimed, the workingman who was killed by the prohibition agent was mistaken for a burglar. The agent was off duty at the time and believed the man was reaching toward his hip pocket, and did not try to hit, but his aim was poor, he declared.

Mr. Baird had denied testimony which Mr. Church gave of restaurant raids. The patrons had not been lined up and women searched as well as men, he insisted.

Asked by Senator Walsh as to the reason he ascribed for the statements of Mr. Church, Mr. Baird said that there might be bias back of Mr. Church's statements because one of his automobiles had been seized on the Canadian border with a load of contraband liquor, and Mr. Church had had to pay $1,000 to get back his car.

"Do you know that?" Senator Reed had asked, and the witness had replied that it was "common knowledge."

When Mr. Baird resumed his testimony in the afternoon he first described the great progress in enforcement made in his district. Great quantities of whisky, moonshine and beer were being seized, he said, and 2,531 raids had been made from September 1 to March 31 last. All this testimony as to the deluge of alcoholic liquors being daily found conflicted with testimony of the dry church members that conditions in the liquor traffic were very much improved, and gave a wet atmosphere to dry testimony, which fact was later commented on by members of the committee.

Senator Reed in his cross-examination brought out the admission that Mr. Baird, recommended by Judge Gary, of the steel trust, for the government appointment, still continued in the employment of the Pennsylvania railroad at a salary of approximately $15,000 a year, while drawing a salary from the government of $600 a month at the same time.

Mr. Baird, under a continued fire of questions, contended that he was giving fifteen hours a day of his time to the government, and still devoting enough time daily to the Pennsylvania railroad to earn $1,500 a year.

Senator Reed then had the witness go into details as to the amount of illicit liquor seized. On this basis it was found that out of 10,000 gallons of liquor and huge quantities of beer had flooded the market and were readily consumed. Operation of stills in houses, in garages, in barns and in drug stores were described. The drug store method, employed in two cases, of the "cutting process," whereby one pint of whisky was transformed into five pints by adding alcohol, water, and sugar, was described in detail. In one case, Mr. Baird explained, there was a large tank in which any kind of liquor, even to Old Bourbon, was initiated.

In each case the liquor was put in a base was used and then the other ingredients added for the flavor. "Sacrilege" Intimated. "Do you mean to say that were sacrilegious enough to even imitate Old Bourbon in this manner?" Senator Reed asked, and the witness replied in the affirmative.

It developed from Mr. Baird's testimony that moonshine came in at a rapid rate whenever the source of alcohol for other brands diminished. As many as 25 to 30 carloads of beer had come in from the outside before the tightening up process. Mr. Baird stated, adding description after description of illicit stills, some so large that 1,000 gallons a day could be manufactured. Frequently, according to the witness, upward of 100 barrels of mash were found in one small bungalow. Mr. Baird said his agents were going after the big commercial stills.

"You don't pay much attention," Senator Reed said, "to the little fellow who is making liquor for his home use?"

"None whatever," Senator Reed and Mr. Baird took the number of gallons of liquor captured by Mr. Baird's agents and figured that Pittsburgh puts out about $2,900,000,000 worth of illicit liquor each year. These were the figures based on past seizures and admittedly did not cover the amounts not recorded in the captures of stills.

"You are still finding these stills," asked Senator Reed.

"Yes,"

"The bootleg business is pretty well organized?"

"Quite generally all over the country,"

Walsh Objects.

Senator Walsh objected to this question on the ground that the witness should not be asked to give an opinion about general conditions when his work was confined to the Pittsburgh district. Senator Reed said he hadn't heard any objections when dry witnesses presumed to speak for 25,000,000 or 30,000,000 people, though obviously the witness could not be asked to so many people. But Senator Walsh persisted that the witness could not for example give an opinion as to organized industry in Montana.

Senator Reed then varied his questions, and asked what Mr. Baird's agents do if a suspected automobile does not stop. The witness finally admitted that the agents shoot at the car. All the agents were good marksmen, he said, although in his morning testimony he had said that the agent who killed the working man attempted to shoot over his head, but hit him by mistake.

"Have you any men in your employ who have criminal records?" continued Senator Reed.

The witness admitted there might be one or two who had charges against them. Mr. Reed then named a man who was convicted by a jury after being charged with extortion and served eight months in the penitentiary. Mr. Baird admitted this man was one of his agents, but said he was framed, and later pardoned and was one of his best men. Another specific case was cited by Senator Reed, and Mr. Baird admitted that this agent was awaiting action by the grand jury.

Raided Without Warrant.

"Have your agents entered places of business or homes without warrants?"

The witness, after hesitation, recalled one case where they did not have warrants.

"Have you a man named Murphy?" asked Senator Reed.

"Yes, sir."

"Did he not beat up a man 65 years of age?"

"He was charged with that."

"Did he not maltreat the man's wife?"

At this point Senator Walsh intervened to stop the brand of questions coming to the witness. Senator Harrell also added his voice to the same end. Senator Reed's contention that he wanted to get the facts as to how the law was being enforced did not offset the objections.

"I object to any further examination along that line," said Senator Walsh.

"Isn't this agent Williams under charge of making false entry?" asked Senator Reed.

"I object to that," repeated Senator Reed, and Senator Harrell again agreed with him.

Sensor Reed hesitated a few moments and then varied his questioning.

"Are you a member of the Du Quessne club?" he asked in a low voice, leaning over toward the witness.

"Yes, sir."

Admits Liquor There.

"You have seen liquor served there?"

"Not by the club."

"You have seen it drunk there?"

"Yes, sir," the witness finally admitted.

"You haven't closed the place, have you?" Senator Reed asked.

Mr. Baird admitted this had not, but he said the club had adopted a rule whereby waiters were forbidden to serve liquor to the club members.

"Why did you need the rule if there was no liquor there?" asked Senator Reed.

There was no answer.

Sensor Reed then took up Mr. Church's charges respecting attempts to influence Congress by the students to give information to the authorities. He asked Mr. Baird about a newspaper advertisement in connection with the duties of the witness to inform the authorities about liquor-law violations.

The witness reluctantly admitted that this advertisement had been put out and proceeded to explain other phases of the question. But Senator Reed checked him.

"I want to dwell," he said, "on this question of soliciting by advertisement, by personal appeal, for information. I want to know if you or any one under you made such appeals?"

"In a Pittsburgh newspaper?"

"In any newspaper."

"Not except in this case," was the final reply.

"So you have done it with the Carnegie students, haven't you?"

Agents at Ball Game.

"Not with my knowledge, except it may have been done unknowingly," the witness said, adding that persons who give information were welcome and were held in confidence. Prohibition agents on the college football field, for example, reported as to conditions, but were not given names of students who were reported as having been in the field.

Sensor Reed was pressing this point when Senator Walsh again intervened to stop the brand of questions. Senator Harrell also added his voice to the same end. Senator Reed's contention that he wanted to get the facts as to how the law was being enforced did not offset the objections.

DOCTORS OPPOSE LIMITS ON PRESCRIPTION LIQUOR

Association Files Brief in the Supreme Court; Other Regulations Drawn.

DR. WORK IS REELECTED

Provisions of the prohibition law limiting the quantity of liquor and wines physicians may prescribe to patients were assailed in a brief filed in the Supreme Court yesterday by the American Medical association. It declared the restricting section unconstitutional because of arbitrariness and unreasonableness.

The brief was filed by permission of the court in an appeal brought by Dr. Samuel W. Lambert, a New York physician, who won in the Federal district court but lost in the circuit court of appeals, in challenging the limitations on the number of liquor prescriptions physicians may dispense each 10 days.

Dallas, Texas, April 20 (By A. P.).—Recommendation that the government purchase all the medicinal whisky in the country and dispense it through Federal depots on prescription in the event the United States Supreme Court holds unconstitutional the present laws governing liquor prescriptions was made by the house of delegates of the American Medical association

ADVISORY COUNCIL REJECTS BELL PLAN FOR STREET UPKEEP

Repeal of Borland Law Is Insisted Upon; Suter As-sails Compromise.

OSTEOPATHY CONTROL BILL IS DISAPPROVED

Elimination of Two Circles Urged in Harvard Street Widening Project.

Engineer Commissioner J. Franklin Bell's compromise bill to modify the Borland amendment to relieve abutting property owners of special assessments for resurfacing of streets was disapproved last night by the citizens advisory council, which voted to stand by its original report demanding the outright repeal of the Borland law. The subject came up on a letter from Col. Bell, stating the opinion that Congress would not repeal the law, and asking the opinion of the council on his substitute for the repeal proposal. Similar letters were sent to several organizations.

Members of the council did not discuss the measure in detail, except that Chairman Jesse C. Suter said it extended, instead of modifying, the Borland law in the case of outlying unsubdivided property, which the courts now protect from any assessment for paving.

Charity Licenses Opposed.

The council also disapproved a bill to regulate the practice of osteopathy, notwithstanding that it recently approved a bill to regulate chiropractors and at the time advocated similar legislation for osteopaths. Dr. George H. Richardson, who reported on the bill, said it was drawn from the standpoint of protecting the status of the osteopaths instead of protecting the public from malpractice.

The bill to license solicitation for charitable causes and prohibit unlicensed solicitation was disapproved.

A bill to widen Harvard street northwest from Adams Mill road to the Zoological park entrance was approved with an amendment eliminating two circles from the street.

Anacostia Tree Nursery Opposed by Association

The proposed tree nursery in Anacostia Park, which when completed will comprise the vast amount of reclaimed land on the eastern side of Anacostia river, was vigorously opposed by the executive committee of the Barry Farms Civic association, meeting at the home of Samuel Hawkins on Pomeroy road last night.

The resolution, embodying the "strenuous opposition" of the association to the proposition, stated that the presence of such a nursery in section C of the park, where it is proposed to locate, would mean the exclusion from that section of those who would be benefited by its park advantages.

It was argued that "a great many people paid with their own lives for the malarial condition that existed before the land was reclaimed." Section C is regarded by the people represented by the Barry Farms association as their section. Elsie S. Hoffman presided.

Georgetown R.O.T.C. Inspection Today

The Georgetown unit of the R. O. T. C. will have its annual inspection by the War Department today. Maj. R. M. Danford, field artillery, and Maj. Thomson Lawrence, infantry, will be the inspecting officers.

The Rev. Charles W. Lyons, president of the university, in a speech in Gaston hall yesterday, urged everyone to do their best that Georgetown might obtain a distinguished rating. He declared there was a "wave of mental sickness" going over the country which could best be combated through the training of the young men of the country in schools and colleges, that they might be able to defend their country.

Eighteenth Street Extension Studied

Plans for the opening of Eighteenth street northwest north of Newton street into Piney Branch parkway are now being considered by the city and park planning committee. Approval of the opening of a curved highway bounded by Garfield, Hawthorne, Forty-third and Forty-fourth streets was made yesterday.

The construction of terraced gardens adjacent to the Bancroft school and plans for the grading of Audubon terrace from Broad Branch road westward to where Soapstone creek enters Rock creek will also be given future consideration.

Rockville Marriage Licenses.

Licenses have been issued at Rockville, Md., for the marriage of Robert H. Travers, 21 years old, of Alexandria, Va., and Miss Agnes Mary Skinner, 19, of Washington, and Thomas Edward Posey, 28, of Rockville, and Miss Ida Imelda Sawyer, 26, of Washington.

Eldridge and Hesse Get New Chance to Agree

Nothing came of the first attempt yesterday to reduce the complications of Washington's traffic code. Director of Traffic M. O. Eldridge and Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police, appeared, as directed, before the commissioners, but had failed to agree on a program to decrease the number of traffic arrests, for submission of which the conference was arranged.

DISTRICT STUDENT BEST AT GEORGETOWN

W. K. Wimsatt, Jr., Again Is Highest on Rolls; 19 Others
Here on Honor List.

For the second time this year, William K. Wimsatt, Jr., a District student at Georgetown college, won highest scholastic honors during the quarterly period.

Announcement of the award of testimonials to Mr. Wimsatt in Latin, English, Greek and chemistry was made at the reading of marks before the assembly of college students yesterday when 19 other students from Washington likewise received honors. Mr. Wimsatt is a sophomore.

President Charles W. Lyons congratulated the honor men, 75 in all, and the Rev. Louis J. Gallagher, dean, distributed the testimonials. District students who received honors were Francis N. McDonald and William Tarver, juniors; Leon N. Maguire, John D. O'Reilly, Jr., James R. Helskall, Raymond H. Helskall, Philip A. E. Stebbing, sophomores; William Coglan, Lee I. Donovan, Joseph V. Henlock, Francis I. McGarragh, James F. O'Donnell, A. Milburn Petty, V. Manning Hoffman, E. E. Farnsworth, Jr., Malcolm D. Harrison, Stafford W. Hawker, and William Murphy, freshmen.

HARVARD GLEE CLUB IS WELL RECEIVED

College Musicians Labor Under Handicap in Absence of Director.

The Harvard Glee club was laboring under a handicap at their annual concert last night in the Masonic auditorium. Dr. Archibald T. Reid, who had led them through year after year of successes, was absent. His place, however, was well filled by G. Wallace Woodworth, and the concert was as enthusiastically received as in former years.

The program was one calculated to suit almost any taste. A wide selection of numbers was offered. Dr. Reid's choice of the "Rig-Veda," by Gustav Holst, proved the most popular. W. B. Woods sang the solo part in the "Hymn to Manas," the spirit of a dramatic drama. "Drake's Drum," by Samuel Cole-ridge-Taylor, was another popular number, as were the group of folk songs and the group of Brahms love songs. A large audience gathered in the auditorium to applaud these college singers who try to sing something better than college songs and succeed. The accompanists, Frank W. Ramseyer, Jr., and L. F. Beveridge were excellent.

Degree for Principals Held as Prerequisite

A college degree should be a prerequisite of appointment as administrative principal of a District public school the Teachers' council decided in a meeting in Franklin school last night. The report was submitted by Seldon M. Ely, a principal, and was adopted with dissenting votes after debate. The qualifications would not be put into effect for five years after adoption and its announcement by the board of education.

The council set forth a series of qualifications which it said should govern promotions. These rated teachers on the following basis: Scholarship 20 per cent, success in teaching 40 per cent, experience 10 per cent, value to school outside classroom 10 per cent, personal equipment 10 per cent and professional spirit and leadership 10 per cent. Nine other systems of grading were submitted by teachers.

Harry S. Lawrence, 32 years old, of 1240 Twenty-second street northwest, was found dead in his room yesterday by Wallace P. Hawkins, of the same address. Coroner J. Ramsey Nevitt certified death from natural causes.

Stricken with a paralytic stroke at the Liberty garage, Eighteenth street and Florida avenue northwest, where he lived and was employed, John Cavell, 70 years old, died before medical aid from Emergency hospital could be administered. Coroner Nevitt issued a certificate of death from natural causes.

CAPITAL SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA MAKES FIRST APPEARANCE

Newly Organized Washington Organization Pleases Brilliant Audience.

WILLIAM TYLER PAGE TELLS OF CITY'S NEEDS

Premiere Points to Permanency of Ensemble Under Kurt Hetzel.

A step toward realization of the ideal of a local symphony orchestra was taken yesterday in the first performance of the newly organized Washington Symphony orchestra, Kurt Hetzel conductor, at Poli's theater before a brilliant audience which included many social and official notables. The concert was under the local management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene.

The Washington Symphony orchestra is composed of 51 local musicians. During the intermission William Tyler Page, clerk of the House of Representatives, addressed the audience, calling its attention to the civic aspects of the orchestra's first appearance and bespeaking the cooperation of Washington citizens on its behalf.

"Here in the Capital City, the shrine of America, is introduced the Washington Symphony orchestra to interpret the nation's soul, ideals and aspirations. On this foundation we hope will be reared a temple of music for all people to take its place beside the temples of other fine arts in this city."

Music Is Necessary.

"Washington, the mecca of thousands of visitors yearly, the most beautiful city in the world, should express the American ideal of civic beauty, and this is impossible without the expression of music."

Mr. Page deplored the former lack of a local symphony and said that Washington was a great music-loving community, with plenty of talent here of a high order musically, and that all that was needed to develop this orchestra into an institution worthy of the National Capital was the cooperation of music-loving people and a common interest in the work to guarantee the permanency of the Washington Symphony orchestra. He predicted the orchestra would take its place among the great symphony orchestras of other capitals.

Much pleasing comment was made upon the public spirit of Mrs. Walter Wilcox, Mrs. Wilson-Greene and their associates in organizing the Washington Symphony orchestra.

Hetzel Gets Applause.

When Conductor Kurt Hetzel took his place to lead the orchestra in its first number, the symphonic poem "Les Preludes," by Liszt, generous applause was given to him and to his men. Before many measures had been played it was apparent that there was real merit in the aggregation and that it contained the nucleus of a real symphony orchestra. The performance was broadcast.

While the orchestra at times showed a lack of balanced effort and that it had not as yet thoroughly learned the fine art of orchestral unity, it displayed a variety of excellent orchestral effects and a distinct individuality of interpretation of Liszt's beautiful composition. Mr. Hetzel's conducting was earnest, scholarly and technically precise.

Richard Bonelli, the soloist of the afternoon, a baritone singer from the Chicago Civic Opera company, had a voice of great beauty, large and flawless range and rare flexibility. His first number, accompanied by the orchestra, "Erl in," from Verdi's "Masked Ball," was well sung.

The real test came for the orchestra in its performance of Tchaikovsky's "Symphony No. 2," with its four lovely movements. The two andante movements with which it opened were handled by the ensemble of the orchestra in a satisfying manner. The value movement was given with vivacity and in a spirited vein, while the many beauties of the closing movement were emphasized properly.

Mr. Bonelli was heard next in a group of songs including Wagner's "Liebesfeiertag," Saint-Saens' "Dance Macabre" and the "Tarentella Napoletana," by Rossini, all of which pleased the audience and developed new qualities of his artistic style.

The concluding orchestral number, the ever-popular "Overture from Tannhauser," by Wagner, gave a chance to the new organization to demonstrate its mastery of effects and its skill at handling climaxes.

Come to Stay.

There is no reason why the Washington Symphony orchestra has not come to stay in the National Capital, and its notable first performance has fully proved it the right to a further hearing from the public of Washington.

DR. W. A. SINCLAIR DIES IN PHILADELPHIA

Former Howard University Trustee Passes Away at Residence There.

Dr. William A. Sinclair, of Philadelphia, recently a trustee of Howard university, from which institution he was graduated in 1877, died last night at 9 o'clock at his residence there, it was learned at a meeting of the executive committee of the general Alumni association at 809 Florida avenue which he was expected to attend. He was for seventeen years financial secretary of Howard university, and raised the money necessary for the building of Andrew Rankin Memorial chapel.

He collected funds for the various scholarship endowments at the university, for current scholarships and the theological endowment fund. In the world war he served as "Y" secretary at Camps Holabird, Greene and Wills. At the time of his death he was a field worker in the Red Cross movement and financial secretary of the Douglas hospital in Philadelphia.

The deceased was a native of Georgetown, S. C., where he was sold by his mother at the outbreak of the civil war. He obtained his medical degree from McHenry college, Nashville.

STRICKEN IN HIS CAR, OGDEN M'CLURG DIES

Publisher and Explorer Found at Roadside; Is Rushed to a Hospital.

Chicago, April 20 (By A. P.).—Unscathed by two decades of adventuring in the tropics and among the perils of the seven seas, Ogden M'Clurg, wealthy adventurer, sportsman and publisher, found death today among friends. He died in a hospital a few hours after he was discovered, barely conscious, on a country road, where he had staggered after collapsing at the wheel of his motor car. Physicians attributed his death to cerebral hemorrhage, but have asked an examination.

Navigator, explorer, clubman and soldier, M'Clurg at 48 had led for almost 25 years an active, robust life. He passed a part of the last winter in the Yucatan with an exploration party.

M'Clurg was the head of A. C. M'Clurg & Co., Chicago publishing house founded by his father. He was a member of the Royal Canadian Yacht club, the Cruising Club of America and the Chicago Yacht club.

Gaithersburg Bus Fire Causes Panic

While en route from Washington to Gettysburg, Pa., yesterday morning, a Royal Blue Line motor bus caught fire near Gaithersburg, Md., causing a near panic among the 20 passengers, eighteen of whom were women, and two men. No one was seriously hurt. The bus was run into a yard adjoining a home alongside the road and the flames were extinguished.

The floor of the bus was burned badly, but otherwise little damage was done. The bus was in charge of Driver Bernard Kennedy and Conductor George A. Meyers, both of Washington.

MURDER STORY IS TOLD AS WAN TRIAL STARTS

Prosecutor and Attorney for Defense Narrate Killing in Chinese Mission.

BOTH SIDES CONFIDENT

The oft-told story of the Chinese triple murder was told again in the criminal court yesterday as the trial of Zhang Sun-Wan opened. Wan is charged with killing Ben Sen Wu, one of the three men murdered in the Chinese Educational mission in 1919.

The narrators yesterday were Wilton J. Lambert, chief counsel for Wan, and United States Attorney Peyton Gordon, who seeks to send Wan to the electric chair.

Pronunciation of the name of Dr. Kaag Li, the government's star witness against Wan, brought about a clash between the opposing counsel at the afternoon session.

In the morning, Attorney Lambert pronounced the name of Dr. Li as "Lee." Counsel for the government suggested that it should be pronounced "lee," but Lambert persisted in pronouncing it in his own way.

In the afternoon, Attorney Rudolph H. Yeatman, who is associated with Lambert, also pronounced Dr. Li's name as "lee." Whereupon, Assistant United States Attorney George D. Horning, Jr., arose and asked Justice Adolph Hoehling, to require him to pronounce it "Lee." Justice Hoehling declined to interfere and Attorney Yeatman continued to refer to Dr. Li as he had before.

When Maj. Gordon had concluded his opening statement outlining the triple murder, he told the jurors that he was confident that they would return a verdict of guilty. Attorney Lambert, in concluding his statement, was just as confident that the jurors would give Wan a verdict of not guilty.

Elimination of Car Noises to Be Sought

Noises made by Washington street cars made the subject of a comprehensive investigation following the terms of a memorandum issued yesterday to all attaches of the public utilities commission by Maj. V. E. R. Corwell, assistant to the engineer commissioner.

Manager Frank S. Hight, of the Willard hotel, recently complained to the commission that street cars on Pennsylvania avenue and Fourteenth street disturb guests of the hotel, both day and night, bumping over the crossing at that point and making other noises.

New Testament Use Advocated by Bishop

Devotional use of the New Testament by believers was advocated last night by the Rt. Rev. H. S. Westpole, lord bishop of Edinburgh, who was the principal speaker at a meeting of the Sunday school institute, in the parish hall of the Church of the Epiphany.

The Rev. William L. DeVries, canon of the new national cathedral, presided and introduced the speakers. An address on the use of religious art in Christian education was delivered by the Rev. V. O. Anderson, rector of St. Agnes' church, who preceded the bishop. Approximately 300 persons attended.

Fowler Wants Dogs Muzzled All Year

Dr. William C. Fowler, District health officer, yesterday renewed his attempt to have the commissioners require the muzzling of dogs all the year instead of only in July, August and September, as under the present regulations.

He sent to the commissioners a report stating that 443 dogs had bitten persons since July 1, the beginning of the present fiscal year, and that examination had shown 153 of the dogs to have been suffering from rabies.

F STREET HAT SHOP BURNS; 5,000 WATCH

Overheated Iron Is Believed
Cause of $2,500 Fire;
Gas Masks Used.

Firemen were forced to use gas masks in fighting a fire last night that did approximately $2,500 damage to the building, and stock of the Primrose millinery shop at 1008 F street northwest. Much of the damage was caused by water and smoke. Mrs. Minnie Barrett is proprietor of the store. The blaze was discovered shortly before 8:30 o'clock.

A crowd of more than 5,000 persons handicapped the firemen in laying hose lines. Reserves from the First and Third precincts were called to keep the crowd back and to direct traffic that was tied up for more than half an hour.

Dense smoke, pouring from the doors and windows of the building, necessitated the calling out of the rescue squad and the donning of masks before the firemen could enter. The blaze, which was confined to the basement workshop, is believed to have resulted from an overheated iron.

School Needs Urged By Parent-Teachers

Reinstatement of the clauses in the District appropriation bill voted out by the Senate was urged yesterday by the District of Columbia Parent-Teacher associations at a meeting at the Hamilton hotel.

Passage of the bill providing a bathing beach in the District was also urged. A resolution urging adjustment of the courses in the junior high schools to conform with those in the senior high schools was passed.

THE ITALIAN DEBT.

The Senate is expected to dispose of the Italian debt settlement today. It should be approved by a large majority.

Several ambitious attempts have been made to prove that the arrangement with Italy is disadvantageous or inadvisable. The opponents of the agreement have not done very good teamwork, for some of them have insisted that Italy will pay nothing at all while others have asserted that Mussolini, by paying as agreed, will establish a great credit upon which to borrow money for war purposes. The criticisms of the settlement have ranged far afield into unwarranted aspersions of Italy's government, its army, and its people. Some of the senators have not hesitated to deal with the Italian debt settlement from the standpoint of their own political advantage.

Not a single fact has been brought out to discredit the official opinion of the American debt commission that the settlement is the best obtainable. The commission is nonpartisan and has taken account of all factors, some of which opposing senators have conveniently ignored.

There is no reason to presume that Italy will not faithfully fulfill the agreement. The debt commission does not indulge in rosy dreams, but bases its recommendation upon established facts and a sane consideration of what the future may be expected to develop in view of the present and the past. Statesmen can do no more than this, and those who indulge in reckless predictions are not statesmen. Wars may come, and nations may disappear; but Italy is long-lived, more virile than ever, and well disposed toward the United States. The two countries are closely associated by sentiment and by the mingling of their peoples. The debt settlement is fair and practicable. It should be approved by the Senate.

The reason the passing motorist thinks he'd like to be the farmer is because he doesn't pass and look in at 4 a. m.

CODIFYING UNITED STATES LAWS.

For more than 30 years attempts have been made, year after year, to induce Congress to codify the laws on the statute books. Commissions have worked on the problem during all that time and upward of $200,000 has been expended in the work. Finally, in May, 1921, Representative Edward C. Little, of Kansas, then chairman of the committee on revision of the laws, succeeded in securing the passage by the House of a codification bill. This work had occupied the entire time of the chairman, his wife, and his clerks for many months. But owing to objections made by the Navy Department to some of the features of the bill as it passed the House the Senate failed to give its approval to the measure. It appears that the Navy Department desired that changes in the law be incorporated in the code, but to have proposed any changes whatever would have involved the necessity for debate, and certain delay. That was the reason for the declination on the part of the House committee to acquiesce in the demands of the Navy Department, with the resultant suffocation of the bill in the Senate pigeon hole.

Twice since the passage of the original Little bill the House has acted, but as on the first occasion the Senate smothered the House bill. However, in the last Congress through the efforts of Representative Roy G. Fitzgerald, of Ohio, who succeeded Mr. Little as chairman of the committee on revision of the laws after the death of that gentleman, that committee and the corresponding body in the Senate got together, and under authority of an appropriation which the Senate added to one of the supply bills $10,000 was made available for the expenses of bringing the work of Mr. Little up to date. It was expected that the principal publishers of law books would actively oppose the project. But when they were approached by Mr. Fitzgerald and Senator Pepper of the Senate committee they not only approved but offered their aid to the limit of their resources in the preparatory work.

For more than nine months a corps of eleven expert lawyers and a clerical force of more than forty have been engaged in the preparation of the code. It was set in type and plates made from which 1,705 pages printed in the style usually employed in the production of law books. It was from this type that the "code" was printed and made part of the bill, which, on motion of Mr. Fitzgerald, the House passed under suspension of the rules on Monday. Had it been printed in the form ordinarily used in bills and joint resolutions nearly 10,000 pages would have been incorporated in one bill.

Mr. Fitzgerald in presenting the bill for consideration explained that there are no changes in the laws. It simply consolidates, codifies and re-enacts the general and permanent laws in force the day the House assembled, December 7, 1925. There are, he said, many portions of the law that are obsolete and many that might be changed by unanimous consent, but to try to bring about desired changes in a measure of this kind would lead to much debate, great waste of time and possibly the defeat of the whole bill.

Because the Senate took the initiative in providing the appropriation which covered a part of the cost of the work, it is believed that the action of the House on Monday will culminate in the revision of the Revised Statutes for the first time since 1874.

People didn't worry about the high cost of living when a long-tailed shirt constituted the summer costume of a boy.

THE PRESIDENT'S WARNING.

President Coolidge's appeal to the Daughters of the American Revolution to aid in the campaign for getting out the full vote in national and State elections is peculiarly timely, in view of the approaching congressional elections. The President's warning that the American system of government is doomed to failure unless drastic action is taken to arouse citizens to a greater interest in their civic duties should have the serious thought of every one. It is vital to the future of America. The President reminded the delegates that in 1920 out of a total of approximately 27,000,000 votes cast in the national election only 37 per cent represented the women vote.

But the women are not the only ones neglected by their duty as citizens. The exercise of the right of franchise is not a privilege; it is a sacred duty to perform, and yet in spite of nationwide appeals made by men and women of national prominence, the election of 1924 showed the same disregard of this duty as was exhibited in 1920. Indeed, it was more pronounced than ever. The vote of 1920, which was the largest ever cast for a President up to that time, represented a gain over the last previous presidential vote of 8,000,000. This was 11,000,000 more than in 1912. In 1924, when interest in the presidential election was believed to be intensified by the fact that there were three leading candidates in the field, the vote was a little more than 29,000,000, or a gain of only 2,000,000 over that of 1920, and yet the population had grown many millions.

It is a startling fact that for every 100 votes cast in 1920 there were 96 stay-at-homes or absentees, the total stay-at-home vote reaching the vast aggregate of 25,705,063. In 1924 it was obviously much greater. There must be some remedy for this willful neglect of the citizens in national elections, or in any other elections, for that matter. In some European countries voting is compulsory. Will the women who brought about the adoption of the nineteenth amendment take the initiative in procuring the enactment of such a law in this country?

The only way a man approaches motherhood is in his solicitude regard for a new spring suit.

The Washington convention bureau is an institution that should have the support of every business activity and every citizen of the National Capital. There is no better way to advertise the attractions of a city than through conventions. C. E. LaVigne, director of the local bureau, reporting on the work of the organization for the first eleven months of its existence, gives the interesting information that in that period it has played a part in bringing to Washington 62,324 visitors, who have contributed a total business value amounting to $3,051,970. Of this sum, Mr. LaVigne says, $1,355,970 represents expenditures of 27,599 convention delegates handled through the bureau, and $1,696,000 the estimated expenditures of 34,725 convention members booked for the near future. The bureau is in correspondence with 822 national organizations which have been invited to hold their conventions here, and 125 have already indicated that they are considering accepting. The director states that most organizations select the cities in which to hold their meetings rather by reason of the facilities to meet their requirements than by the measure of attractions and entertainment.

No other city in the United States can offer more adequate facilities, and certainly none greater attractions than Washington. With an auditorium capable of accommodating large crowds and other places that can take care of small conventions, there is every facility required for accommodating the delegates. But it is in the infinite number of attractions that Washington excels every other city in the country. In this respect Director LaVigne points out that convention visitors offer the most immediate potential prospects for permanent residents. The visitor to the city spends money and helps business, but it is the permanent resident who makes prosperity permanent. Washington can not have too many conventions. Every line of industry and business activity and every resident of Washington who loves his city ought to encourage the efforts of the Washington convention bureau in every way.

Eleven years ago there were less than 1,000,000 motor vehicles in the United States, valued at less than $100,000,000. Today there are more than 20,000,000, representing a total investment of more than $16,500,000,000. More than 4,000,000 were manufactured last year. More than 7,494,000,000 gallons of gasoline were consumed last year in the operations of motor vehicles. In 1924 more than 4,200,000 motor vehicles were in use in towns of less than 1,000 inhabitants and on the farms. The motor vehicle industry has made suburban homes multiply, and has increased the value of suburban property by billions of dollars.

WHAT WASHINGTON READS.

The people of Washington are giving evidence both of culture and a will to culture by the reading which they enjoy. The complexities of modern life and the rapid advance of knowledge have turned the thoughts of the class, that twenty years ago sought its literary pabulum in fiction alone, into other and wider fields of intellectual discipline. The fact, vouched for by Dr. George F. Bowerman, the chief official of the Public Library, that the fiction circulation has fallen by 30 per cent within the period named, with a corresponding rise in poetry, biography, and science, is a good proof not only that readers have now more varied tastes but also that their purposes in reading have a higher aim than merely to kill time.

It is interesting to learn that the sex novel, which formerly made so general an appeal, is at present at the lowest ebb that it has seen for years. It is also, perhaps, symptomatic of the greater equality which has been established between the sexes that it is mostly grandmothers who find pleasure in the perusal of the lighter love stories. It is not all to the bad that the mystery and detective tale still holds its own, for there is a certain sharpening of the intellectual processes to be derived from the study of such problems. Most cheering of all is to find that the classics are still demanded by a faithful few, whose allegiance is testimony that the finest and best things in literature have not lost their attraction or the power to disinfest and elevate life.

On the whole, it may with confidence be affirmed that Washington is doing well in its reading.

Few great works are done by men who think you a traitor to the cause when you suggest being reasonable.

THE JEFFERSON COMMISSION.

The House has agreed to the joint resolution establishing a commission to be known as the sesquicentennial commission of the United States, in commemoration of the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence and the 100th anniversary of the death of Thomas Jefferson. The commission is to consist of the President of the United States, the Vice President, the Speaker of the House and eight persons to be appointed by the President of the United States, four senators to be appointed by the Vice President and four representatives to be appointed by the Speaker of the House.

The commission is to promulgate an address to the people of the United States relating the reasons for the commission, and prepare a program in cooperation with the officers and board of governors of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial foundation and other civic and patriotic organizations to commemorate these great events. This is a fitting and proper move on the part of the House, in which doubtless the Senate will concur. Thomas Jefferson belongs to the whole country, and his works live—a greater monument to his worth than any memorial of marble or bronze.

No man is fit to raise boys unless he can remember when a peach seemed edible as soon as the blossom fell.

MARKING A TRAIL WITH SILVER.

Ezra Meeker is 96 years old. He is the only living man among all that great army of pioneers who blazed the "Oregon trail," besides which rest the 20,000 dead who lie buried in unknown graves along 2,000 miles of that great highway. "Uncle Ezra" is the president of an association which has been formed for the purpose of commemorating the sacrifices of the pioneers who did so much toward adding new States to the Union. This will be done, if the plans are carried out, through the erection of such commemorative monuments as will mark the trail for all time.

It is not proposed to ask Congress for the usual appropriation. On the contrary the Treasury will be the beneficiary through aiding the plan to rescue the important points along the trail from oblivion.

A bill has passed the House authorizing the coinage of 5,000,000 half dollars, of standard weight and fineness, of a special design, the dies of which are to be made without cost to the government. These coins will be issued at par, and as the cost of silver contained in a half dollar is only 26 cents the government will profit to the extent of 24 cents on each of the coins issued, or to the amount of $1,400,000, if the entire number authorized by the bill is taken from the mint. It is the purpose of the memorial association to sell these coins at a profit, probably at double the face value, and to use the funds thus acquired in establishing suitable "markers" along the historic "Oregon trail."

The trail passes through seven States, having fourteen members in the United States Senate. They ought to be able to get the Senate to endorse the House bill and thereby add a worthy cause, and at the same time assist in adding more than a million dollars to the seigniorage profits of the mint.

It may have been that the recent order of the commissioner to the chief of police to curtail the activities of his men in the matter of arrests for minor violations of the traffic laws had something to do with it. But in any event Policeman Gemeny refrained from arresting either George or Clarence Williams for colliding on Rhode Island avenue last Sunday morning. Clarence lives in Washington and George in Baltimore. They are brothers who were left orphans and separated 30 years ago. They had never met in all those years, but they met on Sunday, and it was some meeting—a sort of head on affair, so to speak. When the cop called for the permits of the colliders they brought out their cards and the cop exclaimed "By Gemeny, you fellows have the same hind names." The rest of the story is that neither one cared a continental for the damage to his car. They had succeeded in finding each other after 30 years' separation and that was enough. The cars could go hang. And, by Gemeny, Policeman Gemeny could see no reason for adding to his record. That's why the collision was not reported in police court.

The Worst Joke I heard today was told to me by R. A. McCandless, of the Great Northern Railroad. He is Division Superintendent up through eastern North Dakota.

Mac told me a good story of the old Irishman that examined the cars for hot boxes on one of the Gould roads. He was quite a character. So one day there was a special car on the train, and as it pulled in one of the Goulds of Jay Gould, got out and struck up a conversation with the old tad as he was looking over the cars.

"I guess you don't know who you are talking to, do you?" asked young Gould.

"No," replied the car inspector. "I used to work for your father when he was President of this road, and he will be President of it again soon."

"But," replied Gould, "My Father is dead. He couldn't be President any more."

"Oh, yes he will," said the Irishman. "This road is going to hell mighty fast."

How We Think About Divorce

By GLENN FRANK

DURING the last few weeks a half dozen metropolitan newspapers that come regularly to my table have devoted column after column to reports of discussions and movements respecting the divorce problem. This current discussion of the divorce problem illustrates with admirable accuracy the habits of mind we display in thinking about public issues in general.

Out of the many columns of discussion in which various men and various movements propose various solutions of the divorce problem, I cull the following five proposals as representative:

First, a uniform divorce law for all States.

Today a man may be at once a lawfully married man in one State and a bigamist in another State. A woman may be a lawful wife in one State, but, by the simple device of crossing a State line, become neither maid, wife, nor widow. Children may be regarded as legitimate in one State and illegitimate in another State. And property rights may be set aside by stepping across some State lines.

Second, a five or ten days' public notice of intention to marry before a marriage license can be issued.

It is suggested that part of the energy now spent in guarding the exit from married life be shifted to guarding the entrance to matrimony.

Third, the appointment of a divorce proctor by the court to expose collusion and perjury in the many "arranged" or uncontested divorce cases.

Fourth, education of the people in the realization of the dignity and permanency of the marriage bond.

Fifth, the general influence of religion in creating and cultivating the highest ideals in married life, and the efforts of clergymen to check the ease with which many ministers remarry divorced persons.

Aside from any judgment on the merits of the five proposals as instruments for the achievement of specific benefits at this or that point of the problem, taken together they illustrate the common approach of the American mind to tangled social problems.

Whether we are discussing marital relations, industrial relations, or international relations, there are three things that we invariably propose:

Delayed consideration. Elaborate court machinery to take care of trouble after it happens. The general preaching of good will.

We have a strange habit of dealing with effects rather than causes and of oversimplifying our problems.

The problem of divorce is not simply a question of hasty and ill-advised marriages; a search for its causes involves an examination of the whole fundamental structure and processes of modern society. Our minds are cursed by the sin or oversimplification.

assumptions which make us think the darkness of the subway roars more loudly than it does. Presumably he is right, in the abstract fashion, but he is wrong, too, because the true measure of noise is not the effects it produces on a machine, but those on our own auditory nerves and from them on our brains. So graded, the noises in the subway, especially when an express train is going its best, is louder by far than anything we hear on the street.

A Radio Parish.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: A "radio parish" has been installed at Portland, Maine, and ministers of nine denominations took part in the first service. It may be the only arrangement of its kind, but a great many clergymen today depend on the radio as a most valuable pastoral assistant. Not long ago they were concerned lest the unseen auditors, hearing with such ease at a distance, might permanently join the group of those who of necessity are "shut-ins" because of physical infirmity. But it has

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

To the Editor of The Post:—Sir: May I be granted the privilege to thank you most kindly for the interest manifested by you in behalf of the passage by the Congress of the Standard-Lehigh bill to increase the pensions of retired employees in the Federal service, and also the pensions of the "old timers" like myself who are already out of the service.

I desire to tender my personal thanks, not only in behalf of myself, but also for the postal employees and others in general, and particularly for the comrades in the railway mail service whom I left in the ranks in 1920.

The press in general has done much good for the boys in the service and no paper more so than The Washington Post.

Streets of Washington.

To the Editor of The Post:—Sir: Though a visitor from another city, may I not make two observations through your excellent medium?

The double-decked buses of Washington make an excellent impression as one of the attractive features of your city. They are convenient, agreeable in fine weather and presentable. In fact, they add greatly to the gaiety of the streets—which suggest London or Paris—in this most cosmopolitan of American cities. For one, I can not understand the objections to these double-decked buses.

Second—is it really necessary that the fire apparatus make so much more noise and commotion here than in other cities? Is it important that ambulances keep a steady ringing of bells from one end of Connecticut avenue to the other? Is it not possible that these noises at night, when folks need sleep, might be more serviceable "in the breach than in the observance?"

FRANCIS CALL WOODMAN.
Washington, April 16.

From a Revolutionist.

To the Editor of The Post:—Sir: Anent your editorial of today, entitled "How the Americans Are Bound," and contrasting the form of the government of the Old World with that of the New, you have said, "I pray you, good Sir, light on our own form of government here, in the District of Columbia. Do we properly come under the new regime, that of the old, or are we as Kipling said of the marines, 'E's a sort of a bloomin' cosmopolite—soldier an' sailor too?'"

You say: "The Old World has its own way of working out its salvation. It is a century behind the New World in the adoption of the rule of popular self government. Until it adopts that rule the governments will be managed by individuals who, however noble their motives, will continue to make mistakes which nations themselves, controlled by their own peoples, would never make. A government which is not governed by its people is not a government, is the pan-American conception of government."

Is this reality, or but a myth? LEONARD J. MATHER.

STORE CHAT BY LANSBURGH & BRO.

Truthful Advertising—

Confidence is the life blood of business. No institution can long survive once its integrity has been questioned. For two-thirds of a century the name of Lansburgh & Bro. has stood for fair dealing in every transaction, for honesty of purpose and deep-rooted desire to merit the faith of thousands.

Strictly do we adhere to our life-long policy of "Truth in Advertising." We prefer to be honest in all we claim for our merchandise—the simple truth is powerful enough.

We prefer accuracy to fine language, understatement rather than exaggeration, clearness above cleverness, reason above rhapsody—for we believe that you need only to know the truth about the merchandise that we sell.

Six thousand delegates, alternates and members of the thirty-fifth Continental congress of the D. A. R., put aside legislative problems, political issues, and speech making last night to assemble for the annual reception, the leading social event of the convention, in Memorial Continental hall.

The reception was held in the auditorium of the hall, a historic chamber which has been the witness of many chapters in D. A. R. history, and the scene of the disarmament conference which made international history.

Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, president general, and her national board of management, received the guests on a flag and flower decorated platform. Long lines of the guests were formed in the foyer as they marched through the library in a slow procession to pass down the receiving line. The reception began at 9 o'clock and ended at 10:45. Over the receiving party hung the Peale portrait of George Washington, one of the art treasures of America which was recently acquired for the D. A. R. Around the walls hung the State flags, and floating from the huge chandelier in the center of the hall were the flags of the nations participating in the disarmament conference.

Lively Tunes Played. A string orchestra played patriotic and jazz airs, and lively tunes were the rule to keep the delegates moving as swiftly as possible. After they had been received the delegates moved into the museum where they greeted the State regents who were lined up there in a supplementary reception.

It was a panorama of American womanhood passing before their eyes. The women represented every State and section of the country, and in the buzz of talk which floated above the music, could be detected the soft drawl of the Southern woman, the clipped, clear accents of the woman from the North, and the breezy intonations of the woman from the West, all meeting on the common ground of revolutionary ancestry. To those with imagination there seemed to pass with these women the shades of their illustrious forebears, the men and women who built the foundations of the republic.

It was noticeable as the delegates passed along, that the ranks of veteran daughters are becoming thinner year by year, and that the 35 years of the society's existence has whitened the locks of its charter and early members who still survive. Time, however, has not lessened in any degree the devotion of the old guard when they were recognized by the spectators, applause would break out in tribute to their services to the society.

Modern Styles Prevail. Included in the delegates of today are many young women; in fact, it might almost be said that there is a youth movement in the society.

Yet the fad for bobbed hair has not invaded the ranks of the daughters to any great extent as evinced by the exhibition last night. On the other hand, the vogue for short skirts has been indorsed by the D. A. R. judging from the average length of those worn by daughters old and young last night.

Another change which was noticed was that the day of the décollete has also arrived in D. A. R.

and curator general, Mrs. J. S. Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey.

No other candidates had been announced in this office, but Mrs. Brossau, with the exception of Mrs. Galus M. Brumbaugh, of the District, for organizing secretary general, who withdrew her candidacy Monday.

Seven Vice Presidents.

In addition to these national officers, twelve women will be placed in nomination for the seven vice presidents general to be elected at this congress. Mrs. John M. Beavers, retiring State regent of the District, is one of the candidates for this post and there appears to be every chance of her election. The other eleven candidates are: Mrs. John Brown Heron, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Charles Read Banks, Plainfield, N. J.; Mrs. Julius Y. Talmadge, Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. Frank Felter, Indiana; Mrs. Lyman Stoker, California; Mrs. Eugene H. Ray, Kentucky; Mrs. Harry Hyman, Texas; Mrs. Edgar Henry Loyhed, Minnesota; Mrs. Benjamin C. Cushman, Maine; Mrs. George H. Fowler, Rhode Island; and Mrs. George H. Warren, New Hampshire. Mrs. John Campbell, of Colorado, is the only candidate who has appeared thus far for the post of honorary vice president general. It is thought that her election will be unanimous.

Political gossip still persisted in some quarters, however, that an attempt would be made at the nominations to set aside the constitution in some manner, so Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, the present president general of the organization, who is barred from reelection, might be elected for another term.

It is well known that Mrs. Cook would never consent to any setting aside of the established rules of the society to benefit her thus directly, and it is regarded as certain that if such an attempt were made she would repudiate it from the chair and announce to the delegates that the placing of her name upon a ballot for reelection would be illegal and would make those ballots so written invalid.

Those closest to Mrs. Cook have known of her consistent refusal to take any part in the political plans of any party, including her own, because she regards herself as president general of the entire society and has conducted her administration on that basis, according to her supporters. The success of her administration is acknowledged by all and it is said that she wishes to retire without any break in the harmony of her regime.

It is predicted that upon the election of Mrs. Brossau one of her first acts will be to appoint Mrs. Cook national chairman of the constitution hall committee to direct the completion of that work, the inauguration of which is one of the outstanding achievements of the Cook administration. Mrs. George Maynard Minor, when she was elected president general, appointed Mrs. George Thacher Guernsey, the retiring president general, as national chairman of the constitution building committee, which Mrs. Guernsey had inaugurated.

State Meetings Held.

The session yesterday morning was the only formal one of the day, the afternoon being devoted to State meetings.

Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook reported on the progress of constitution hall as being satisfactory, and the session yesterday morning was the only formal one of the day, the afternoon being devoted to State meetings.

The weekly formal luncheon of the Woman's National Democratic club will be held at the clubhouse, 820 Connecticut avenue, today, with Mrs. Antoinette Funk as the speaker. Among those who have made reservations are Mrs. Andrew A. Jones, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. Cordell Hull, who will have as her guest Mrs. Joseph T. Robinson; Mrs. William A. Oldfield and Mrs. F. J. Garrett; Mrs. Wilton J. Lambert, Mrs. J. Harry Covington, Mrs. Edward B. Meigs, Mrs. Frank S. Bright, Mrs. George M. Eckels, Miss Laura Knott, Mrs. Marie Fisher Cunningham, Mrs. Blair Banister, Mrs. Stephen Bonasal, Mrs. Frank Hiram Snell, Mrs. Rosa Yates Forrester and Miss Ethel Ketcham.

Mrs. Alfred Brossau, chairman of the finance committee on constitution hall, said in her report that the million-dollar bond issue would be ready on June 1.

Mrs. Brossau pointed out that if all the boxes and chairs of the new auditorium are sold to chapters and States for memorial purposes, that they will net $875,000. To date $1,094,538 has been raised for Constitution hall. At the conclusion of these reports the congress adjourned, to hold a memorial service for 35 members who died during the past year and who held important national and State offices.

Included in this number was Mrs. Henry F. Blount, of the District of Columbia, who had served as vice president general.

Reports of the various national committees will feature today's morning and afternoon sessions of the congress. At 4:30 p. m. the President and Mrs. Coolidge will receive the delegates at the White House.

After an address, "Back to the Republic," by the Rev. W. Warren Giles, of East Orange, N. J., nominations will be in order. Thursday morning the ballot boxes will be opened for voting.

Mrs. John Trigg Moss, of Missouri, chairman of the resolutions committee of the congress, reported out a number of resolutions at the morning sessions, one of which abolishes the date of executive manager in the society's headquarters; another authorized a committee to revise the by-laws of the society, with permission to employ a lawyer and a parliamentarian in the work, and to report results to the next Continental congress. All these resolutions were adopted.

North Carolina Members Have Luncheon and Tea

The North Carolina delegation yesterday had a busy day, socially, the members giving a luncheon and a tea followed by a dinner. They later went in a group to the president general's reception in Memorial Continental hall last night.

Mrs. Edwin C. Gregory, the State regent-elect, is of Senator and Mrs. Lee Overman, of North Carolina.

North Carolina has paid for a North Carolina box in the auditorium and have taken thirteen chairs and $9,560 worth of bonds.

Senator Pepper Speaks At Pennsylvania Meeting

Senator George Wharton Pepper was the speaker at the meeting of the Pennsylvania delegation in the red parlor of the Willard hotel. He spoke on the sesquicentennial to be held in Philadelphia this summer.

Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, president general and honorary State regent of Pennsylvania, thanked the society for the support given her during her administration. Other honorary State regents who spoke were Mrs. Allen Perley Putnam, Mrs. Edwin Earle Sparks and Mrs. Alexander Ennis Patton.

Pennsylvania has taken 142 chairs in the auditorium, $40,000 worth of bonds, a box and has donated $18,000.

After the meeting Mrs. John W. Phillips, wife of Representative Phillips, of Pennsylvania, entertained the Pennsylvania delegation at tea in honor of the retiring and new State officers. A dinner was given later by the Regents club of central Pennsylvania in honor of Mrs. Heron and the new State regent, Mrs. George Thacher Guernsey, honorary president general, was a visitor at the meeting and indorsed Mrs. Heron as a candidate for vice president general. Mrs. Alfred Brossau, candidate for president general, was also a guest.

State Room Is Improved By Maryland Daughters

The Maryland State meeting was held at Memorial Continental hall yesterday afternoon. Mrs. D. M. Garrison, the State regent, presided. Mrs. Charles T. Marsden, the State vice regent, was also present.

Maryland has taken a State box in Constitution hall and has subscribed $16,200 in bonds. Thirteen memorial chairs have been taken and $165 donated. The dedication of the Peace Chime given by the Maryland society to the Valley Forge Memorial will take place July 4, and the State regent urged as many Maryland daughters as possible to take part in the pilgrimage from Maryland to Valley Forge.

The Maryland society has spent $2,000 in furnishing and renovating the Maryland room in Memorial Continental hall. A handsome Sheraton table and a pair of rare ottomans, a tilt-topped table, new curtains and a book have been added to the room.

North Dakota yesterday was added to the list of the States which have placed memorial stones in the Washington monument. Bearing the North Dakota State seal, the stone, 350 feet high in the monument, was formally unveiled by State officers of the D. A. R., and accepted by Maj. U. S. Grant 3d, on behalf of the Federal government. It was the 184th memorial stone placed in the monument.

Miss Virginia Ladd, of Takoma Park, daughter of the late Senator Ladd, of North Dakota, pulled the cord which uncovered the stone, following the playing of the North Dakota State song by the Marine Band orchestra.

Formal presentation was made by Mrs. Eric A. Thorberg, State regent of the D. A. R., who presided at the ceremony. The stone, Maj. Grant replied, should symbolize a keen and constant interest by members of the D. A. R. in the lasting welfare of the National Capital. Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, president-general of the D. A. R., agreed, and urged her hearers to consecrate themselves to the well being of the nation.

Every North Dakotan will feel a closer bond between his State and the nation has been established through the presentation and acceptance of the stone, Representative O. B. Burtness, of North Dakota declared. The significance of the occasion was also emphasized by Mrs. George Morley Young, vice president general of North Dakota. The invocation was pronounced by Mrs. Rhette Goode, chaplain general of the D. A. R.

State vice regent, and Mrs. John Laidlaw Buel, former vice president general from Connecticut.

Mrs. William Henry Harrison 3rd is a delegate of the Caroline Scott Harrison chapter of Indianapolis. Her husband is the grandson of the President and Mrs. Benjamin Harrison.

Mrs. Harry Edmond Hockman, of the Pennsylvania delegation, was a guest in whose honor Miss Cornelia Hohmed entertained at luncheon yesterday. Mrs. Hockman is the house guest of Miss Hohmed.

Mrs. Charles Fisher King, of Wilmington, Del., is the guest of Representative and Mrs. Charles Linthicum, of Maryland, during the congress.

Mrs. William F. Rogers, who is a member from Maryland on the State auditorium committee, is also serving on the house committee.

A portrait of Mrs. A. Leo Knott, one of the earliest members of the society, has been placed in the Maryland room of Memorial Continental hall. This portrait is a gift of the late Gen. A. Leo Knott, and was presented during the administration of Mrs. Arthur Lee Bosley as State regent of Maryland. Mrs. Bosley is now Mrs. George Washington Slocum.

Among the Maryland pages is the niece of Mrs. Charles Linthicum, Mrs. William Linthicum, formerly Miss Helen Perry.

Mrs. Elmer E. Woolen, one of the Maryland members of the credential committee, began her D. A. R. career as a page when she was Miss Smilda Buckingham. She has also served on the house committee.

The District of Columbia did not have a State meeting yesterday, as the delegates conducted all the necessary business at the meeting held in March. Mrs. John M. Beavers, the retiring State regent and the District of Columbia candidate for vice president general, was a guest at many of the State meetings, indicating that she will receive much support from the larger and more important States on election day.

While the State regent of Oregon is not in Washington, the Oregon delegation has an important place in the conference, and held its State meeting in Memorial Continental hall yesterday. Miss Anne Margaret Long, vice president general from Oregon was present. The State regent's report told of achievements along the lines of patriotic education and Americanization. Eleven chairs and one box in the auditorium have been taken by the State.

Mrs. Charles F. Lobingier, organizer in 1914 of the Philippine chapter of the D. A. R., entertained at tea in her apartment in the Toronto yesterday delegates of the overseas chapters, the Nebraska chapter and the officers of the Michigan chapter. The overseas chapters include China, Paris and the Philippine Islands.

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES McDONALD

This Is the Spirit!

MISS McDONALD—I am a youth 19 years of age, a little conceited, of a jealous nature, and still happen to be popular with all my acquaintances. Have never drunk (anything stronger than wine) or smoked and don't swear. After my first year in high school I quit school and have been working steadily for the past two and a half years at a good business, with a chance to make something of myself, provided I start now. At present I am all for pleasure and seem to be lazy where work is concerned.

Miss McDONALD, a majority of boys like sports and I am no exception to the rule. I can hold my own with the average in baseball, football, bowling or tennis. Play a good game of checkers. Can play several card games. Gave up dancing, and can't swim. All my time and money are spent at the above. I also travel a good deal to the theaters and amusement parks.

Last July I met a girl three years my junior and care a great deal for this girl, although we had a bust-up over a broken date and nearly another one because of my jealousy. She stated once she would never go with any one fellow steady although I had not mentioned the matter at any time, as I expect to be able to treat a girl so that she will wish to go with me and stop going when she does not care any more. The girl is in her second year at high school, has a bad temper which she can control when she wants to and is popular and travels with several fellows. Her father believes she is too young to go around. Somehow, I happen to be the exception to his rule and am liked by both her and the girl's mother.

The girl seems to care a great deal for me and I will do anything for her. It is only when I am with this girl or by myself that I think of the future. (I am not going to think of marriage until I am at least 24 and I want to be able to offer the girl I marry something besides myself.) When with other girls, a good time at the present and present only is my one thought. I tried going only with my boy friends but I would only hang around the streets and pool rooms. I do not know whether I should travel with my boy friends; go with only this girl until we get tired of each other or go with both boys and girls and in this way find out if I really care more for this girl than any one else. In the first sentence of this paragraph I mean travel with only boys and no girls. I mean to study three nights a week no matter what else I do for social reasons. (This last paragraph is a little confusing I know, but I believe you will understand what I mean.)

I think the girl has just the right effect upon you. That is the ideal relation between really fine young people—that stimulation to effort, the stabilizing and "normalizing" influence. Do not give up all other friends—but do NOT give up this girl! You are so lucky, dear boy, to have found such a friend and SHE is so lucky to have found in this age of listless youths a boy who is actually THINKING—using his HEAD—and using it so very, very well. I hope you go through life in the way you are starting—with a perfectly clear view of all your bearings—and where each course may lead. I'm willing to wager right NOW, that you MAKE GOOD! Would that all boys had your outlook. Good luck to you!

I cannot hear the slightest sound,
But somehow I can feel
A certain bustling underground
That's very near and real.

Strange mysteries are going on Within the damp and gloom,

In worlds I cannot look upon
The roses plan to bloom.

But I can only guess their plans
And wait and watch them toll, Convinced a greater work than man's Goes on below the soil.

The power of God I feel and see
In every bud that swells,
In blossoms on the apple tree
And Canterbury Bells.

Keeping Your Schoolgirl Complexion

Never Touch

Any but a true complexion soap to your face

Good complexion too priceless for experiment

THE only kind of soap to use on your face is a soap made basically for that purpose. Rinsing your complexion to an unproved soap is a folly.

Before Palmolive came, women were told "use no soap on your face." Soaps then were judged too harsh.

Then came this famous beauty creation. A soap made by experts in beauty solely for ONE purpose: to safeguard the complexion. A soap made of rare cosmetic oils, to be used freely, lavishly on the skin. A soap, thus, that changed the beauty habits of the world.

Leading skin authorities use it. Most of the pretty skins you see today are largely due to it. Launder, cleanse with any soap you wish. But when beauty is at stake, take care.

Start the day in the following way for one week, note the improvement in your skin.

The rule for gentle skin and pore cleansing

Wash your face gently with Palmolive Soap, massaging it softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream—that is all.

Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening. Use powder and rouge, you wish. But never leave them on overnight. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away.

Get real Palmolive
Do not use ordinary soaps in the treatment given above. Do not think any green soap, or represented as of palm and olive oils, is the same as Palmolive.

It costs but 10c the cake!—so little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain a cake today. Then note what the amazing difference one week makes. The Palmolive Company (Del. Corp.), Chicago, Illinois.

Conduct and Common Sense

Introductions—Third Part.

Although we suggested in the last article that it was well not to speak of our family formally, even to strangers, when making an introduction, there are some exceptions to this general rule, which we give at the end. You should not give to an older woman of your own class: Mrs. Roberts, this is my daughter, Miss Minch.

Not should you introduce to you, say: "Mr. Mauly, I want to introduce you to my mother, Mrs. Minch." It is quite enough for you to say, "this is my daughter, Mary." And for her to say, "mother (or mamma, with two m's, not ma-ma), this is Mr. Mauly." In the same way you introduce your husband as your husband. "May I introduce my husband to you, Mrs. Strange?" And no matter what his title you speak so of him to your equals. George says this. "My husband says this."

Not "the judge," or "the colonel," or "the doctor," says so. There is no harm in saying judge, colonel or doctor, but dwellers in the more particular social world do not do so. They presuppose that most people know of their husbands' positions and that it is unnecessary to emphasize them.

But when families have disorganized themselves, and husbands and wives have divorced each other and remarried, there may come occasions when last names have to be formally mentioned, particularly now that society has become so large and promiscuous. When it was smaller and more selective most of its members knew the histories of most of its members.

Now we can easily imagine Mrs. Random (once Mrs. Minch) saying to a young man: "My daughter, Miss Minch," for identification purposes.

Beauty and You

Shoulders As They Should Be.

Not one woman in a thousand has beautiful shoulders—but at least nine hundred women in the same number have shoulders less beautiful than Nature intended. Yet nothing is more disillusioning than a lovely evening dress and shoulder-blades that proclaim their existence with bony protuberances, ugly shadows, and the sense that, even if their owner is plumper than the mode demands, her plumpness is badly distributed.

Beautiful shoulders depend most of all upon posture—an erect carriage, not stiff, not straight, as a flower is straight, with litheness. Study yourself in a mirror, from the back, from the side, and notice how you can decrease the size of your shoulder-blades by the way you stand.

"But," says some one, "I sit all day long at a desk." Then, dear child, you must remember to practice a certain little exercise that I am about to give you. Not only will it improve your shoulders, but your temper as well; for restfulness is its result. Here it is:

Sit erect. Stretch your neck up and your chin out until you feel the muscles pull. Now rotate the shoulders from front to back, round and round, ten times at least. Do this two or three times during the day and watch results. If your chest is hollow, add a moment or two of deep-breathing exercises with the window open.

(Next week the beauty editor will describe exercises for resting the back.)

Fashion Hint

Nothing could be smarter than a printed linen frock with two inverted pleats at the side fronts made of plain linen, a center-front opening, and set-in sleeves with plain binding. The small, round collar and tie are attractive. Bloomers are included in the design, which is made in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years.

Maj. Jones Placed On Control Board

Maj. Dewitt C. Jones, engineer corps, has been named by Secretary of War Davis as United States representative on the Niagara control board, created by agreement between this country and Canada for the purpose of obtaining closer cooperation between the governments in the matter of controlling the amount of water diverted from Niagara river for generation of power.

Maj. Jones recently succeeded Maj. Paul S. Reincke as district engineer at Buffalo, N. Y., where Maj. Reincke was also a member of the control board.

Love Confessions Of Famous Men

By JOSEPH KAR

A Love That Led To Ruin.

When Capt. O'Shea instituted divorce proceedings against his wife and named Charles Stewart Parnell, the great leader of the Irish party, as correspondent, the action caused a tremendous stir; but this was nothing compared to the scandal which followed when the suit was defended and it was brought out that Parnell had been intimate with Mrs. O'Shea over a period of ten years.

The leader's political position was imperiled; soon it was absolutely destroyed when Gladstone threatened to withdraw his support from the Irish movement if Parnell did not resign. That was the end of this famous man's brilliant career.

Mrs. O'Shea revealed all the circumstances of their romance and directed this bitter and illuminating condemnation against his foes: "Because Parnell contravened certain social laws, not regarding them as binding in any way, and because I joined him in this contravention since his love made all else of no account to me, we did not shrink at the clamor of the upholders of these outraged laws, nor resent the pressing of the consequences that were inevitable and always foreseen."

"The freedom of choice we had ourselves claimed we acknowledged for others and were wise enough to smile if, in some instances, the greatness of our offense was loudly proclaimed by those who we knew lived in a freedom of love more varied than our own. For the hypocrisy of these statesmen and politicians who, knowing for ten years that Parnell was my lover, had with the readiest tact and utmost courtesy accepted the fact as making a safe channel of communication with him; whom they knew as a force to be placated; those who, when the time came to stand by him, in order to give Ireland the benefits they had promised him for her, repudiated him, from under the cloak of the religion they thereby foreswore; he, and I with him, felt a contempt unexpressed."

O'Shea's reprint below, displays the ardent love the statesman bore for her:

"Dublin, Wednesday Night, November 11, 1880.

"My dearest love—I have made arrangements to be in London on Saturday morning, and shall call at Keppel street for a letter from you. It is quite impossible for me to tell you just how much you have changed my life, what a small interest I take in what is going about me and how I detest everything which has happened during the last few days to keep me away from you. I think of you always and you must never believe that there is to be any 'fading.' By the way, you must send me any more artificial letters. I want as much of your self as you can transfer into written words, or else none at all.—Yours always."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

DIET SOLE PELLAGRA CURE.

ALL efforts to cure pellagra with specific medicines have failed. Whether the medicine be bought under a "sure cure" label or secured through a physician's prescription, the results have been the same. But there is ample proof that pellagra can be cured. Diet is the cure. Furthermore, there is ample proof that it can be prevented in the first instance and also that a person who has had it and been cured can be protected against relapses. Again, diet.

Some of the theories about pellagra are still unproven. Some of them contradict other theories about the disease. But while the scientists are still observing, investigating and speculating, the common, everyday man can eat right, clean up and keep clean, and in that way put the possibility of pellagra out of his life.

Dr. Goldberger and his associates, working in Georgia and South Carolina, have recently added some other items to our stock of information about diets for pellagra. In their experience, a proper daily allowance of lean beef will prevent pellagra, cure it and prevent relapses from it. The last is the most difficult test of virtue.

The amount to be eaten daily to bring about these results is about seven ounces. The meat should be fresh. The use of daily of about one-half an ounce of dried yeast extract had the same effect. In previous studies it was found that the daily use of about one pint of good fresh milk had the same effect. About 40 ounces daily of good, fresh butter, milk had the same effect. Dried skim milk was less efficient against pellagra than was fresh, whole milk, and fresh buttermilk. The same was found to be true of butter. That food had a fair amount of curative and protective power, but it was far less efficient than milk.

It seems proven that a disease called "black tongue," to which dogs are subject, is the same as pellagra in humans. If this is true, discovery should go forward more rapidly. Experimenters can take more liberties with dogs.

The various foods used to cure pellagra have been found curative for black tongue. Some experiments indicate that butter is more effective against black tongue than it is against pellagra, but that discrepancy may be explained by further experiments.

of food, in the right amounts, will cure and prevent pellagra does not mean that efforts to bring about better sanitation should not be continued.

KEEPING RATS AWAY.
H. C. writes: While I do not overlook anything that falls from your pen, whether concerning rats, dogs, cats or humans, I must confess that I really enjoy most anything that you have to say concerning rats.

And this leads me to observe that one ounce of cement mortar, properly placed, is worth a ton of arsenic or a trainload of dogs. No rat will ever tackle a layer of cement mortar, even of the thinness of ordinary cardboard. The material is very cheap and can be spread by any one.

Recently, down Joliet way, I have enjoyed some highly practical experience in cleaning out the place of an old friend who had spent much time, money and effort to rid the place of rats.

This friend prepared a mixture of lime, sand and cement, which I mixed with water and applied. The results were not brilliant, but they were most certainly effective. No more rats. Moreover, there will be no more, for the cement mortar is as lasting as the stars and more lasting than some of them.

But in this, as in lithotomy, hysterectomy and a few other things, including rat killing, the one essential element—brains—is generally omitted, with the usual result.

FUMIGATE; THEN USE.
Mrs. W. R. R. writes: My brother died of tuberculosis of the bone. He was sick over two years, but was not confined to his bed.

1. If his suits are fumigated and cleaned will it be safe to give to people in need?
2. Is it safe to use his bedding after fumigating?
3. Is a cup of hot chocolate good for a 7-year-old girl every morning?

REPLY.

1. Yes.
2. Yes.
3. Fairly so.

HER JAW LOCKS.

Miss L. B. writes: For the last few months I have been troubled with a locked jaw. Almost every time I yawn or try to open my mouth to any extent my left jaw locks, but as soon as I close it it is all right. I have always been in good condition.

Can you tell me what is wrong?

MODISH MITZI

Fashions appear to be filling out. (A thing most people struggle to keep their figures from doing.) Mitzi is admiring an evening dress here, with a tight tier bolero effect which ends at a wide hipline. The skirt is very full, over an underskirt.

Mitzi Admires the Robe de Style

In afternoon frocks, the robe de style shows the tight basque. The neck and sleeves hark back to the quaintness of a great many years ago. The skirt is very full, and the hem line is uneven. It's a demure frock and Mitzi won't wear it her type.

By Jay V. Jay

But one can have infinite choice among the new robes de style, for they have become very popular. The figure on the left shows the style for scallops and the full skirted mode. On the right, a dress of taffeta showing the wide, wide skirt trimmed with filled taffeta.

And this is the evening gown Mitzi selects.

It's lace, which is one reason for its smartness. It has a bolero effect, an uneven hem, a flaring skirt, and an almost normal waistline, which are other new reasons in its favor. Mitzi, however, keeps her silhouette tall and slender.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau.
Washington, Tuesday, April 20—8 p. m.

Forecast—For the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia: Fair and warmer Wednesday; Thursday increasing cloudiness and warmer; moderate west and southwest winds.

The disturbance that was between Bermuda and Cape Cod Monday night has advanced to Nova Scotia with greatly increased intensity, the S. S. West Canna near Sable Island reporting a pressure of 28.80 inches. The northwestern disturbance is central over Manitoba, La. Pas, 29.36 inches, and trough extends southward to New Mexico. High pressure prevails west of the Rocky mountains and Florida. The highest pressure is 30.36 inches at Jacksonville, Fla., and Eureka, Calif.

Shower have occurred within the last 24 hours in Texas and the Rocky mountain and southern States regions. The ratio has been excessive at San Antonio, Tex., where 4.63 inches fell. The weather has been considerably warmer almost generally from the plains States eastward to the Atlantic coast, except in the extreme north and along the New England coast.

While cooler weather has overspread the far Northwest, the temperature is now much above normal from the upper lake region westward to the Pacific coast. The highest temperature reported is 88 degrees, but it is still below 80 degrees in the Gulf States, the Ohio valley and Tennessee. The weather was abnormally cold Tuesday morning, the weather will be fair and warmer east of the Mississippi river Wednesday, and more to cloudy and rainy with the probability of showers in the lower lake region, the Ohio valley, Tennessee and the Gulf States. There are no indications of a return to unseasonably cool weather for several days.

PROPOSED TUITION FOR NONRESIDENT PUPILS PROTESTED

Line Merely Imaginary One, Zihlman Tells House Subcommittee.

NURSES' HOME MEASURE HELD OUT OF PROGRAM

Five Concrete Loading Platforms on Connecticut Avenue Are Approved.

Opposition to the Cramton bill prohibiting Maryland and Virginia children from attending District schools without payment of tuition, was voiced by a large delegation before the House District education subcommittee last night.

Chairman Zihlman, of the House District committee, heading the delegation, declared that there is no need for the legislation at the present time. The District line is virtually an "imaginary" one, he said, and there is sound reason why parents who work in the District, spend their money here, but who reside across this imaginary line because of cheaper living conditions, should be required to pay tuition in local schools.

An investigation will determine, he said, that the complaints which have been made against crowded and insanitary conditions in the schools, apply more to schools in the central part of the city.

No Moral Reason.

Representatives Cramton, of Michigan, and Funk, of Illinois, declared there was no real reason or any other kind of why District taxpayers should be required to educate Maryland and Virginia children. Mr. Funk, who headed the subcommittee which prepared the District appropriation bill, including a ban, which Mr. Cramton's bill proposes, said there are more than 3,000 of these Maryland and Virginia children. They take up the space of ten 8-room school buildings, he declared. There is no doubt, Mr. Cramton said, but that those who go into Maryland and Virginia to live find cheaper living conditions when the District has to bear the burden of educating their children. Nowhere else in the country does such a situation exist, he said.

H. F. Sedgwick and Capt. Frank E. Hewitt, of Silver Spring, Md., and Mrs. Giles Scott Rafter opposed the measure, while Jesse G. Yaden, of the District Public Schools association, and E. A. Ashenbach, of the Northeast Citizens association, supported the measure.

E. H. Pullman, president of the Manor Park Citizens association, appeared in support of the Arentz bill looking to the establishment of a junior college here, while E. P. Donoho, president of the Strayer Business college, spoke for the Linthicum bill to incorporate his institution.

The board of District commissioners yesterday voted to recommend to Congress the pending bill to charge a "reasonable" tuition after July 1, 1928, except the children of officers and men connected with the army, navy and marine corps.

A report was sent to Congress stating that the bureau of the budget declared the bill to spend $300,000 of District funds to erect a nurses' home for the Columbia hospital for women to be in conflict with the financial program of the President and urging that in the future the hospital be supported by Federal instead of District funds, or else be converted into a public institution under the board of public welfare instead of managed by separate board of trustees as at present.

Approve Loading Platforms.

Construction of five permanent concrete loading platforms for street car passengers in Connecticut avenue, at a cost of $2,750, to be paid for by the District, was approved by the commissioners, on recommendation by Maj. W. E. R. Covell, assistant to the engineer commissioner.

The platforms would be at K, L, M and De Sales streets northwest, and would bear flashing beacons on ornamental posts, the design of which would be submitted for approval to the commission on fine arts.

The commissioners submitted to the District committee of Congress the opinion that the bill to license solicitations for charities is unnecessary and suggesting numerous minor amendments in case Congress desires to enact it in any event.

Anthropological Body Renames N. M. Judd

Neil M. Judd was reelected president of the Anthropological society of Washington at a meeting yesterday afternoon in the National museum. Other officers reelected were David Bushnell, vice president, and Dr. John M. Cooper, secretary. Henry B. Collins, Jr., was elected treasurer.

Dr. Walter Hough gave a talk describing the work among the Pueblos in the last half-century. He declared that 17 of the 27 explorers in this time have belonged to the local Anthropological society. Dr. John B. Swanton presided.

Ancient Ledger Shown To Historical Society

The ledger of a Georgetown department store, for 1805, kept by Adam King, was shown to the members of the Columbia Historical society, which met last night at the Cosmos club, by the president, Allen C. Clark. James Madison was among the many prominent people who had an account at this store.

A talk on wild flower cultivation was given by Dr. Edgar T. Wherry, president of the Society for the Preservation of Wild Flowers. Dr. Wherry's talk was illustrated with lantern slides.

circles. There was little extreme dressing in that regard, but evening dress was most prevalent, and only occasionally was a delegate seen in a costume with high neck and long sleeves.

Many of the delegates exhibited handsome jewelry with their gowns, and still others wore quaint old-fashioned pieces of jewelry, some of which they proudly claimed dated back to revolutionary days. The favorite jewel of all was the picturesque spinning wheel, insignia of the society, and its most precious ornamentation was its gold ancestral bars.

Many lovely costumes were noted. Imported gowns were seen side by side with "Made in America" gowns fresh from the hands of village dressmaker or city modistes.

Gowns Attractive.

Particularly fetching were the gowns worn by the receiving party. Gold gowns, of lace, lame and metal cloth predominated, with many shades of blue from palest to a deep sapphire vied with lavender and orchid and American beauty for favor.

The gowns of the national board of management who received with Mrs. Cook were attractive against the background of flowers.

Mrs. Cook wore a handsome gown of turquoise blue lame striped with silver. This was cut in a deep U-shaped neckline back and front and outlined with two rows of rhinestones. Rows of rhinestone balls decorated the sides of the skirt. The graceful blue chiffon train hung from the left shoulder. Mrs. Cook wore a diamond chain and diamond pendant earrings and carried a large bouquet of pink roses.

Mrs. George Thacher Guernsey, honorary president general, wore a gown of imported yellow crepe embroidered in yellow bead roses. She wore diamond ornaments.

Mrs. Rhett Goode, chaplain general, wore a gown of white chiffon, embroidered in crystal beads.

Chiffon Gown.

Mrs. George de Bolt, historian general, had on a gown of white chiffon, embroidered in pearls.

Mrs. James H. Stansfield, registrar general, wore a gown of lavender crepe, embroidered in lavender beads.

Mrs. Charles R. Whitman, curator general, wore pale gold chiffon velvet, embroidered in tiny beads with a dull red predominating. This was made very tight and had a V-neckline back and front.

Mrs. Larz Anderson, librarian general, was very distinguished looking in a gown of violet and silver brocade, made on fitted lines. A shallow band of lace outlined the V-shaped neckline back and front, and was also used at the armholes. A large, deeply tinted rose was worn low on the left hip.

Mrs. Alfred Brosseau, treasurer general, and candidate for president general, had on a gown of silver lame made with a long bodice and a full-on skirt heavily embroidered in rhinestones and pink beads.

Mrs. William Sherman Walker, organizing secretary general, wore a gown of white chiffon, with the bottom of the skirt heavily embroidered in green and gold beads.

Mrs. Alvin H. Connelly, reporter general to the Smithsonian institution, wore a gown of white chiffon and rhinestones.

Mrs. Frank H. Briggs, recording secretary general, wore black velvet and a lace shawl.

Mrs. John Miller Horton, of New York, who was also in the receiving line, wore a gown of gold tissue and gold lace with diamond ornaments in her hair and diamond earrings.

Mrs. John Harrison Hanley, vice president general from Illinois, wore a gown of lavender satin trimmed with rhinestones and crystals.

Other Dresses.

Mrs. S. A. Dickson, vice president general from Louisiana, wore gold lace with bands of sequin in gold.

Miss Amy E. Gilbert, vice president general from Iowa, was in peach satin embroidered in peach beads and crystals.

Mrs. Thomas W. Spence, vice president general from Wisconsin, wore a gown of purple and gold brocade in very small design with orchid chiffon scarfs falling from the shoulders in the back.

Mrs. Russell William Magna, vice president general from Massachusetts, wore a gown of powder blue chiffon embroidered in crystals.

Miss Anna Margaret Lang, vice president general from Oregon, wore a gown of peach chiffon embroidered in silver with a tulle scarf to match.

Mrs. Herval A. Smith, vice president general from Arizona, had on a gown of green and gold brocade embroidered in gold beads.

Mrs. Franklin Clark Cain, vice president general from South Carolina, wore black lace over black satin.

Mrs. Gerald L. Schuyler, vice president general from Colorado, wore a white crystal embroidered robe.

Mrs. L. Victor Seydel, vice president general from Michigan, wore black jetted tulle.

Mrs. Charles B. Boothe had on black chiffon embroidered effectively in silver.

Mrs. John M. Beavers, state regent of the District of Columbia and candidate for vice president general, wore a becoming gown of cream lace over white chiffon.

Many Memorial Chairs Are Taken by Virginians

Many women well known in Washington, and some of them

residents here, took part in the business of the Virginia State delegation yesterday. Mrs. James Reese Schick, State regent, presided. Mrs. Schick paid special tribute to the efforts of the Washington-Lewis chapter, of Frederickburg, for the restoration of Kenmore as a national shrine to Betty Washington, sister of George Washington.

Mrs. Schick announced that Virginia has taken a box in the auditorium in memory of four State regents—Mrs. William Wirt Henry, Mrs. S. W. Jamieson, Mrs. James F. Maupin and Dr. Kate Waller Barrett.

Chairs have been taken in memory of Mrs. James F. Maupin by the Great Bridge chapter, of Norfolk; Mrs. Stewart Jamieson, by the Mount Vernon chapter, of Alexandria; Mrs. Camden C. Dike, of the Fort Green chapter, of Brooklyn, N. Y., through the Albemarle chapter, of Charlottesville, by her daughter, Mrs. Murray Beecock, and Mrs. Vivian Fleming, by the Washington-Lewis chapter.

Many memorials to the late Dr. Kate Waller Barrett have been established by the Virginia chapters in schools and colleges. The Virginia delegation numbers 75, and includes many State officers. The list of officers and chapters regents comprises Mrs. James Reese Schick, State regent, Roanoke; Mrs. E. W. Finch, vice State regent, Richmond; Mrs. J. E. Irvine, recording secretary, Charlottesville; Mrs. Nathaniel Beaman, treasurer, Norfolk; Mrs. W. W. Richardson, librarian, Hampton; Mrs. E. S. Bethel, registrar, Vienna, and Mrs. Robert Pierce, historian, Wytheville.

Sore throats need this Double-Treatment throat probably needs the soothing, healing vapors that arise from Vicks VapoRub when it is rubbed over throat and chest at bedtime. And Vicks acts two ways at once:

(1) It is vaporized by the body heat and inhaled, right to the inflamed air passages, loosening the phlegm and easing the difficult breathing;

(2) At the same time it warms and stimulates the skin like an old-fashioned poultice, "drawing out" the pain and soreness and thus helps the vapors inhaled to relieve the congestion.

Good for the colds of all the family.

Audit of Chesapeake & Potomac Co. Shows Higher Net Income.

REDUCTION STOPPED BY ORDER OF COURTS

Six Per Cent Stated as Fair Return on Investment of Corporation.

Maj. W. E. R. Covell, assistant to the engineer commissioner in public utility matters, yesterday issued a statement commenting on the 1925 audit of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. and expressing the opinion that the corporation had enjoyed sufficient prosperity to make appropriate the reduced rates ordered by the public utilities commission last summer, but held up by the courts on the company's plea. Maj. Covell said:

"The audit of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. just finished shows that 1925 was a successful year for the company. Net income was higher than anticipated. As a result, it is believed that the lower rates ordered by the commission last summer, but temporarily halted by court order, should now stand, as the company's figures show it to be earning a 6 per cent return on $24,800,000.

Cut Should Be Effectuated.

"The company is contending for a valuation of $25,000,000, or with radio eliminated, about $24,800,000. The commission allowed about $18,500,000. The Federal statutory rate in 1926 practically stated that 6 per cent was a fair return for this company, so it is seen that the cut ordered by the commission should be effective, even if the company gets the entire high valuation claimed.

"On the other hand, which is more likely, if the court inclines to the commission's view, another cut, in addition to the one stopped temporarily by the court, may be possible.

charges of failing to report a mutilation suffered by him and conduct unbecoming an officer. The charges were preferred following the mutilation which McDuffie is said to have suffered at South Capitol and M streets early last December, while he was accompanied by three soldiers and a colored woman, according to police.

McDuffie, who was at that time a member of the White House police, was treated in a hospital, but refused to reveal how he was injured, police say. When he was released from the hospital he was transferred from the White House guard to the Metropolitan police force and was assigned to the Fourth precinct.

Virginia Institute Plans Pageant Here

"An Evening With Virginia Military Institute" will be the name of a pageant to be staged the evening of May 8, by the Robert E. Lee chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, in the ballroom of the Willard hotel. Mrs. Walter E. Hutton, president of the chapter, and Sam Syme, vice president of the Virginia Military Institute alumni, will have charge of arrangements.

The institute will send to Washington both its dramatic club and entire cadet orchestra. These two organizations will comprise about 25 specially trained cadets, including ten students from Washington. The joint appearance of the dramatic club and cadet orchestra will be their first in this city.

represented as taking the attitude that the charges were for regular judicial inquiry without any outside influence.

Among high party counsels at the Capitol, however, there was apparent rifts in the serenity heretofore displayed. One prominent member said he had counseled an investigation from the outset, and he even went so far as to suggest that the commissioner should resign and stop the furor.

The House veterans' committee which is pursuing an investigation into guardianship conditions began to "dig to the mill" of the "cotton" as Representative Rankin, of Mississippi, expressed it.

At its hearing in the morning it was developed through Maj. Davis G. Arnold, head of the guardianship service of the veterans' bureau, that the bureau does not go behind court records.

Maj. Arnold said there had been only three cases of delinquent guardianships reported in the District and in a few minutes Mr. Rankin developed that it had taken two years for one of these cases to develop. No irregularities in Mr. Fenning's practice had been reported, Maj. Arnold testified.

Only Three Delinquent Cases.

Maj. Arnold then gave the procedure obtaining in the equity division of the District Supreme court. He testified that in every case in which Mr. Fenning had acted, the auditor had recommended the amount of Mr. Fenning's fee and that it had been approved by the presiding judge.

Immediately Mr. Rankin and Representative Milligan, Missouri, and Gibson, of Vermont, questioned him.

"Are you certain that the auditor has reviewed all of these fees?" Mr. Rankin asked. Mr. Gibson told the committee that it was an established fact that many of the lunatic writs came down from the court with the amount of the commission almost specified, the auditor thus having no voice in the matter.

Representatives Rankin and Milligan were pursuing another line, however. Vice Chairman Luce, of the committee, asked the auditor to stop them. Mr. Rankin exclaimed:

"The gentleman may take the responsibility if he wants to, but we are getting to the milk of this coconut now."

Maj. Arnold assured the committee that he had given his understanding of the procedure and could not enlighten it further. It was agreed to call Herbert L. Davis, Auditor to Be Called.

Regarding limitations of land armaments, Mr. Kellogg said the country's armaments had "voluntarily reduced to the minimum," and added:

"We have every reason to rejoice that this, but this is no justification for overlooking the different problems which other countries are faced. We would naturally welcome any steps other powers might take toward the limitation of land armaments; we shall be glad if we can at any time exert a helpful influence in this direction."

Meeting Pledges to China.

The situation in China has to be viewed, the Secretary said, in the perspective of that country's history. "We have endeavored, and we are endeavoring, to carry out those promises so solemnly made to the Chinese people in the covenants adopted at the Washington conference. The tariff conference and the extraterritorial commission are still in progress, and the tariff conference and the extraterritorial commission are still in progress, and the tariff conference and the extraterritorial commission are still in progress."

As to the treaty situation between the United States and Turkey, Mr. Kellogg said there had been no departure from the traditional, typical American policy.

"We have endeavored to afford proper protection to all legitimate American activities in Turkey," he added, referring to the pending Luce conference on the traditional, typical American policy.

COAST LINE DECLARES HIGHER EXTRA DIVIDEND

Common Stock Pays 9 Per Cent in 1925 After New Allotment.

POTOMAC ELECTRIC GAINS

By F. W. PATTERSON.

The Atlantic Coast Line Railroad yesterday declared an extra dividend of 1/4 per cent on the common stock, payable on July 10 to stockholders of record June 15.

The Atlantic Coast Line paid two extra dividends of 1 per cent each in the last two half-yearly periods making 9 per cent paid on the common stock in 1925, in which year the company set a record of earnings for all time, with net income applicable to dividends on the common stock in excess of 24 per cent. Including undistributed equities in earnings of controlled properties, the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad earned more than 35 per cent on its stock.

The Atlantic Coast Line Co., of Connecticut, which owns 183,300 shares of common stock of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, will share in the dividend declared yesterday to the extent of $916,500, which is equivalent to more than 10 per cent on the $8,820,000 capital stock of the Atlantic Coast Line Co.

The Coast Line Co. is a holding company, formed to control the railroad, but some years ago reduced its holdings. The company is owned chiefly by Baltimore and Washington investors and the holdings in the railroad are quite extensive in the District.

Strong Bids for Bank Stock.

Relatively light trading was the rule in all parts of the list in yesterday's session on the Washington Stock Exchange. Though all stocks were sold sparingly, a good tone prevailed and price changes were negligible.

Potomac Electric Power preferred came out 1/4 point up at 106 1/2, and picked up 1/4 on a closing sale of five shares which sold at 106 1/2.

It was indicated that the House judiciary committee will not get to the consideration of Mr. Bignon's impeachment resolution until the latter part of the week or early next week.

The bond corner of the market was quiet. D. C. Paper 6s sold at 100 1/4, and Capital Trust 5s at 99 1/4.

RESIGNATION ASKED OF WOMAN EDITOR

Mrs. Nicholson's Article About Gov. Ritchie Arouses County Executive Board.

Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, of Chevy Chase, Md., editor of the Woman Democrat, a publication sponsored by Democratic women's clubs of Maryland, has been asked to resign by members of the executive board of the Woman's Democratic club of Montgomery county, because the publication is "plainly antagonistic to Gov. Ritchie and William Milnes Maloy."

In a letter of protest to Mrs. Nicholson, signed by the chairman of all Democratic women's clubs in Montgomery county, it is charged that the publication is "misleading and contrary to Democratic principles."

It is also charged that the publication appears to be the organ of the so-called "left wing" of the Law Enforcement Clubs of Maryland, instead of the Woman's Democratic club of Montgomery county, which finances its publication.

U. S. to Lend Its Debtors Funds to Pay Their Debts

By S. S. FONTAINE.

New York, April 20.—What a street sentiment was wrought more cheerful today and, with few exceptions, the active list swung to the "buy" side. Rumors that the foreign situation was not altogether satisfactory were refuted by an announcement from Paris that Premier Briand had informed the French cabinet of a preliminary agreement with the United States. The principal offset to the good news was a break of 16 points in Federal Refining & Smelting on the announcement of a new step in an injunction suit brought by H. Conant of New York, in paying a special dividend of 10 per cent on the common stock. But it is stated that all that has happened is that the court of chancery of Delaware has overruled a demurrer of the defendant, which suit was not actually ruled on the merits. But the assumption of lawyers is that in overruling the demurrer the court signified its impression that the company cannot pay dividends on the common stock until the suit is decided.

California crude oil production in the week ended April 17 decreased 200 barrels daily, averaging 538,658 barrels, but California fields showed 800 barrels daily, averaging 319,600 barrels, due to slight gains at Long Beach and Torrance. Tests of the deep zone found at Long Beach are under way but are not expected to affect production totals until about June 30, 1926.

United Oil Co. has completed well No. 7 McKee, the first well to tap the lower producing zone at Los Cerritos, Long Beach. Initial yield was 700 barrels of 20 gravity oil, showing considerable emulsion. The owners believe the well will make 400 barrels of clean oil, which is about what was expected to wells in this zone. McKee No. 7 is the first of eight wells being drilled to the lower producing zone.

Domestic production of crude oil increased 1,053 barrels daily in the week ended April 17, averaging 1,568 barrels, but domestic fields showed 800 barrels daily, averaging 319,600 barrels, due to slight gains at Long Beach and Torrance. G. & I. STOCKHOLDERS DIVIDE ON RATIFICATION

N. T. Baker Fails to Reassure 69,504 Shares on Nickel Plate Merger Issue.

Richmond, Va., April 20 (By A. P.).—Ratification of the actions of the board of directors of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad during the last year was voted here today by stockholders of the company at the forty-eighth annual session. There were 69,504 shares against ratification, with 743,492 favoring.

Charles C. Myers and N. T. Baker, representing the Van Sweringen interests, that ratification of the actions of the board would not constitute affirmation of merger of the road in the Nickel Plate system. The negative vote was cast by those fearing complications.

George Cole Scott, John Stewart Bryan, J. A. Dart, W. J. Harahan, O. P. Van Sweringen, George T. Bishop, Alva Bradley, T. B. Ginn, J. C. Loderbach, Otto Miller, John C. Myers and L. H. Steers were elected to the board of directors, the number of which was increased to 12 instead of 11.

President W. J. Harahan described another successful year in the annual report. The company's net income for 1925 was $20,027,999, or an increase of 65.51 per cent over 1924.

Among the acquisitions of the year was that of the outstanding common stock and the refunding and general mortgage bonds of the Sandy Valley & Elkhorn railway.

URUGUAY 8S BOUGHT UP

New York, April 20. (By the Associated Press.)—Improvement was general throughout the bond market today, but most of the price advances were limited to fractions. Indications of an easier money situation, with call rates reported available below normal stock exchange rates, contributed to a marked broadening of activity.

The most consistent display of strength was given by the local traction issues, which responded with lively rallies to the announcement that the personnel of the transit commission had been reorganized and to favorable quarterly earnings reports. Interborough, Brooklyn, Manhattan and New York Railways bonds were bought in large blocks on advances of 1 to 2 points.

In the face of the steady decline of the French franc to record low levels, considerable interest was aroused by the ability of French government and railway bonds to attract buying support. The advance today was attributed to reports that a working agreement had been reached for funding the war debt to the United States.

Another strong point in the foreign group was the Uruguayan 8 per cent issue, which was bought up in anticipation of tomorrow's offering of $3,000,000 6 per cent bonds at 96 1/2. The underwriting syndicate, headed by Hallgarten & Co., announced that a substantial portion of the loan had been taken up by the placement in Holland and other European countries. The proceeds will be used for refunding and improvement purposes.

Price movements of foreign loans lacked significance, although several new high prices for the year were established. Frisco 4s A moved up a point, to 33, and a good demand developed for the new classes of Northern Pacific bonds. Skelly Oil 5 1/2s, Cuba Co. 6s and Murray Body 6 1/2s displayed independent strength in contrast to the heaviness of Warner Sugar 7s and the American Whittier Paper 7s. In addition, the Uruguayan loan, public offering will be made tomorrow of $15,622,000 Chicago & Northwest Railway 6 1/2s at 94 per cent general mortgage bonds at a price of 102 1/2, to yield 4 1/2 per cent.

CURB MARKET REVIEW.

New York, April 20. (By the Associated Press.)—Weakness of the small packing currency stocks, practically all of which established new low levels for the year, featured today's irregular curb market. Swift & Co. sold down to 10, Swift International to 14. While the market was believed to represent the "backwash" of the recent drive in the "back" market, the issues of the "back" market.

Ons displayed a slightly firmer undertone despite the announcement of a small increase in crude production last week. Net gains of a point or two were recorded by Chesapeake Solar Refining, Standard Oil of Kentucky, Gulf and Refining, and Gulf Refining. In each case, the small, large issues improved slightly on the announcement. The market was asked to approve plans to extend voting power to both classes of stock. Ford Motor Co. Common to 4, and 17 points to 40 on a few odd-lot sales. Other active motors showed fractional improvement. Goodyear Tire was hammered down 2 points to a new low record of 10 1/2. The covered all of the day's loss. Coal company shares recorded moderate gains, moving influenced by the increased demand for anthracite as a result of the weather. A. C. C. moved up a point each in the service issues featured the electrical and telephone group. Continental Baking A's and Gillette Safety Razor also were in good demand. Chief attention, however, was in the public utility division centered in Commonwealth Power, which advanced a point to 7 1/2.

RUTH AND MATES EASILY TROUNCE NATS, 18 TO 5

Rosemont Dog Judged Best In Show

Greyhound's Victory Awards Trophy to Exhibitor.

Pomeranian Chosen for First Prize Honors.

ROSEMONT LISKEARD FORTUNATUS, a tall, lithe greyhound owned by the Rosemont kennels, carried off the major honors in Washington's twelfth annual dog show last night, when he was adjudged the best dog of the 500 in the show by the five judges. Mrs. Woolley and Messrs. Ford, Glebe, Havens and Jacobus.

With Rosemont Liskeard Fortunatus' victory, the Rosemont kennels earned permanent possession of the grange challenge sterling tankard, donated by Mrs. A. P. Gardner and offered by the Washington Kennel club. In order to gain possession of this trophy it was necessary for one exhibitor to win the best dog honor three times, and the victory of the greyhound accomplished this for the Rosemont people.

Prior to last night's show the Rosemont kennels had produced the winning dog of the show in both 1924 and 1925. For these two victories commemorative medals are awarded.

BEFORE winning the major prize Rosemont Liskeard Fortunatus gave strong evidence that he would offer worthy contention for the best dog award by taking first place in the variety class for sporting dogs. In this event Fortunatus scored over Trewhartha Ben, P. H. Powell's pointer, and Mary Lee, Lancelot Jacques, Jr.'s, foxhound.

Dollie Gold Tips, a handsome little Pomeranian, which is owned by Mrs. H. G. Spindler, was the runner-up to Rosemont Liskeard Fortunatus for the best dog prize, and she was selected for first prize as the best dog of opposite sex in the show.

As a result of Dollie's victory, Mrs. Spindler received a commemorative medal on the Messrs. Galt & Co. sterling cup for producing and exhibiting the best bitch in the show. Like the Gardner trophy, the Galt cup, too, must be won three times to gain permanent possession thereof. However, unlike the Rosemont people, it was Mrs. Spindler's first leg on the cup and she must exhibit two more winning bitches before she acquires the cup permanently.

The challenge trophy, offered by Adolph Loeb to the best dog or bitch shown by a local exhibitor, was won by Frank P. Leach with Newcoin Regret, a smart looking little bull terrier. Mr. Leach also won a third prize ribbon with Newcoin Regret in the variety class for terriers.

Indians Take Rubber Game From Chicago

Chicago, April 20. (By A. P.)—Cleveland made it three out of four in their series with the Chicago White Sox, taking the final game, 9 to 5, by hitting both Thurston and Thomas freely. All the Indians hit safely, and Tris Speaker led the first rally with a circuit clout in the sixth.

Grabovsky, batting for Edwards, after two men got on in the last frame, smashed the ball into the bleachers to bring in three runs.

Nats Looking At Rookie Catcher

Chet Horan, Former Red Sox, Reports For Tryout.

Coveleskie to Pitch for Nats Today in Philly Opener.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.
CATCHER CHET HORAN, recently let out by the Boston Red Sox, is being given a trial by Manager Harris and the youngsters showed considerable promise before yesterday's game. Last year he played with the Union team in the Carolina association and was picked up by Pilot Fohl and taken to the Beaneaters' spring camp at New Orleans.

Failing to make the grade, he was ordered to report to Des Moines, of the Western league, but kicked over the traces and finally was given his unconditional release. He has been visiting at his wife's home in Frederick, Md., and, hearing that the Nats needed some backstopping material, reported yesterday.

Whether or not he hangs on, remains to be seen. Manager Harris does not plan to carry but three receivers and it is hardly likely that Horan can crowd out any of the present trio—Ruel, Tate and Severide. An extra wind-paddist is needed to help out for a while and it is more than likely that he will be given this job in the place of Earl Moser, Central High lad, who now holds it, but is rather inexperienced.

BULLET JOE BUSH was mighty enthusiastic over progress being made by his injured knee and states that, if as much improvement is shown in the next couple of days as in the past two, he will be ready to pitch to batters on Friday and to take his turn on the hill on Sunday.

Joe went to Philadelphia on a 7 o'clock stater last night as company for Stan Coveleskie, who will do the Nats' hurling in today's Sleepy City inaugural.

Al Schacht set a new style in baseball yesterday in the stick drill which preceded the game, when he took the mound wearing Muddy Ruel's shin-guards. Johnson soon convinced him that the idea was a good one by bouncing a hot one off one of them, which caromed all the way to right field. Al probably would be in the hospital now had he not gotten this brilliant idea. He plans to wear the guards in future.

In a gabfest in his locker-room yesterday, Miller Huggins stated that he considered the Nats the best defensive team in baseball. Those sweet words were spoken, however, before and not after the contest.

There were three brilliant fielding bits in yesterday's game. Combs, Stewart and Judge contributing most. In the first, Earl came in at second to second to rob Judge of a safety, while Joe came through with a leaping, back-hand catch of Dugan's liner in the eighth, which helped Morrell considerably.

But the best was Stewart's one-hand catch of Combs' hot grounder, well over toward first, in the sixth. No one thought Stuff had a chance when he went after the ball, and the throw which followed also was out of the ordinary.

JOHNSON fanned a trio yesterday, bringing his all-time streakout figures to 3,356. When he whiffed Shocker in the second, Urban asked Umpire Connolly to look at the ball. It's pretty late in his career for Barney to be suspected of tampering with the ball.

This series has been a great one for Earl Combs. In the three games here, the Yank centerfielder has pounded out a triple, two doubles and five singles.

Tech and Episcopal Shun Tennis Courts

Cold weather forced Tech and Episcopal High, of Alexandria, to postpone their tennis match scheduled for yesterday, to tomorrow on the Alexandria courts.

Today Tech is scheduled to engage the Friends School team on the latter's Wisconsin avenue courts.

Bud Taylor's Johnson Fails To Impress On Hill

Filipino Second Ring Victim of Terre Haute Boxer.

Churchill to Abandon His Entire Stable of Fighters.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 20. (By A. P.)—Clever Sencio, the battling mite from the Philippines, lies dead tonight, the victim of gruelling punishment administered by Bud Taylor, Terre Haute, Ind., aspirant to the bantamweight championship in their furious 10-round contest fought here last night.

Sencio died alone in his hotel room, from cerebral hemorrhage as the result of the bout. The little Filipino flew right into his feet when the bell ended the contest, but in need of support to help him from the ring. He was immediately taken to a hotel where physicians said his condition was not alarming, and his handlers, thus assured, left him to sleep. A window washer looking into Sencio's room a few hours later found him lying dead on his bed in a pool of blood.

No legal action will be taken against Taylor, District Attorney Eugene Wingard said. He declared that boxing was legal in Wisconsin, but all the rules of the law had been complied with, that both boxers had been pronounced physically fit by physicians examining them for the athletic commission, and that "Sencio's death was just one of those unfortunate things that may happen in any sport."

THE tragic ending of last night's fight was the second fatality in Taylor's career. Frankie Jerome, a New York bantamweight, died two days after his contest with Taylor in New York a year ago. Jerome at that time was knocked down, his head crashing against the floor of the ring with such force that a hemorrhage developed.

By a strange stroke of fate, Sencio's death was the third within the ranks of Filipino boxers who sought to attain fortune and fame outside the boundaries of America's island possessions.

Sencio's body probably will be taken to his native land for burial, but these arrangements have been held up pending the arrival from New York of Frank Churchill, the little Filipino's manager, tomorrow. Churchill today said that he would immediately give up managing boxers, as Sencio's death was the third tragic ending to Filipino boxers who were under his guidance.

The Terra Haute blond was crushed when he learned today that his game little opponent of last night had died. He said he would rather have been knocked out in the first blow of the battle himself, rather than have Sencio die.

MRS. CLARK'S WILL LEAVES $1,000,000 TO HER RELATIVES

Widow of Former President of National Bank Disposes of Estate.

TESTAMENT IN COURT
SINCE 1892 CONSTRUED

Children of Dr. John F. May Each Share Equally in

The will of Mrs. Susan F. Clark, with four codicils, was filed yesterday in probate court. By these instruments Mrs. Clark, who was the widow of the late William E. Clark, former president of the National Bank of Washington, disposes of an estate which will probably exceed $1,000,000 in value. The bank and George Starkey are named executors.

A niece, Blanche L. Hoopes, is given $24,000. Dr. Fannie E. Hoopes and M. Ella Hoopes, also nieces, are given $15,000 each. A trust fund of $15,000 is created for the benefit of a niece, Gertrude Hoopes. Arthur W. Hoopes, nephew, is given $5,000.

Frances M. Blankenship, a niece, is given $19,000 and the children of a deceased niece, Emma L. Harrison Green, are the beneficiaries of a $15,000 trust fund. Frank W. Harrison, a nephew, is given $5,000 and is the beneficiary of a $10,000 trust fund. Samuel K. Wilhelm, a nephew, is given $18,000, and an $18,000 trust fund is created for the benefit of a nephew, William C. Wilhelm. Samuel Wilhelm, Jr., is given $5,000.

The unmarried daughters of Susan B. King, cousin of the testatrix are given $5,000 each. Florence L. Hoopes is given $5,000. A trust fund of $2,000 is created for the benefit of a cousin, Francis B. Wilhelm.

Church Given $2,500.

The Central Presbyterian church is given $2,500. Property in Harpersburg, Pa., and the household and personal effects of the testatrix are given to relatives. The executors are directed to divide the residue into nine parts and distribute one part each to Dr. Fannie E. Hoopes, M. Ella Hoopes, Blanche L. Hoopes, Frances M. Blankenship, the children of Emma L. Harrison Green, Samuel K. Wilhelm, William C. Wilhelm, Gertrude Hoopes and Frank W. Harrison.

Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy in equity court signed a decree construing the will of Dr. John Frederick May, Washington physician, which has been in court since 1892. The will disposes of an estate valued at $550,000. According to the decree each of the six children of Dr. May share equally in the estate.

The children of the deceased daughters of Dr. May are allowed to share in the estate as heirs of the mothers. One of these daughters was Mrs. William C. Whitney, whose husband was Secretary of the Navy under President Cleveland. Mrs. Whitney was killed while horseback riding near Alton, S. C., several years ago, and her son by her first marriage, Capt. Arthur Randolph, was killed in Flanders during the war.

The infant son of the captain, who lives in London, also shares in the estate. The other beneficiaries are Dr. William May, of this city, and his sisters, Mrs. Caroline M. Wright and Mrs. Alice M. Beaver-Webb, of New York. The National Savings & Trust Co., as trustee, will distribute the estate. Attorney Frank J. Hogan appeared for the trust company. Other attorneys who appeared in this case are Walter Bruce Howe, Charles H. Bradley, George L. Ingraham, George Gordon Battle and Alfred E. Mills.

Waste Material Asked By Salvation Army

Waste material and discarded articles of clothing, salvaged by Washington women during "clean-up" week, can be utilized by the Salvation army in providing employment for the inmates of the industrial home.

The army wagons will visit residences in all sections of the city during the week and contributions of useless articles are earnestly requested by Brig. Pickering. Old books and newspapers, cast-aside garments and discarded pieces of furniture will greatly assist the army officials in carrying out their charitable projects. Children's clothing and shoes are especially needed. All donations will be promptly called for by telephoning Main 8023.

More Than 40,000 Visited Zoo Sunday

More than 40,000 persons visited the Washington zoo Sunday, according to an estimate by officials. This is considered an unusually large attendance, although it is not a "record" crowd, the zoo having had as many as 65,000 and 70,000 visitors on Sundays during the spring season.

The delayed warm weather is proving a discomfort to animals, who are forced to remain confined to their winter quarters, keepers stated. None of the summer cages has been opened on account of the cold, and the only freedom thus far enjoyed by them has been a brief outing in the yards on a mild afternoon recently.

Two Rear Admirals Transferred.

Rear Admiral Sumner E. W. Kittelle is detached from the naval examining board and will go to the navy yard at Cavite, P. I., it was announced yesterday at the Navy Department. Rear Admiral William W. Phelps is detached from the general board and goes to the fleet base force.

Richardson Indorsed For Education Board

The Rev. Edward E. Richardson, president of the Congress Heights Citizens association and professor of philosophy at George Washington university, has been indorsed for the board of education by the Society for Philosophical Inquiry, of which he is president. This indorsement brings the total for Dr. Richardson up to three, the other indorsements coming from the Congress Heights Citizens association and the Barry Farms Civic association.

Three vacancies will occur in the board of education at the expiration of the present fiscal year. The terms of Ernest Greenwood, Charles F. Carusi and Mrs. Coralie F. Cook will expire. Mr. Greenwood has notified the judges of the Supreme court that he will not consider reappointment.

BISHOP WILL OFFICIATE AT CORNER STONE LAYING

Exercises Will Be Held at St.
Mark's Parish House Sunday.

TO CONFIRM CLASS OF 40

Bishop James E. Freeman will lay the corner stone of the new parish house of St. Mark's Episcopal church, Third and A streets southeast, in appropriate exercises, at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

The new house will adjoin the present one, and will seat 400 people. It will be equipped with a kitchen, for banquets and church functions. Beginning July 1 the present house will be remodelled as an addition, and the whole will be completed by October 1.

At the appointed time Sunday, the crucifer, the choir, wardens and vestrymen and the visiting parish clergy will march out of the parish house, where they are to assemble.

After the exercises Bishop Freeman will read the morning service at the church. He will preach the sermon, and confirm a class of 40 persons.

The new house has been built expressly to accommodate the Sunday school, which has 300 members.

The visiting clergy formerly connected with the parish are the Rev. C. K. P. Cogswell and the Rev. W. A. Masker, both now in Washington; the Rev. G. Freeland Peter, of Richmond, Va.; Canon William L. DeVries, of the Washington cathedral; the Rev. Caleb R. Stetson, rector of Trinity parish, New York, and Bishop Philip M. Rhinelander. The present clergy of the parish are the Rev. William H. Pettus, rector, and the Rev. Stephen Webster, assistant rector.

Delos H. Smith is architect of the house. David Mead Lea is chairman of the building committee.

JARDINE TO ADDRESS FINAL DAY SESSION

Delegates of National Association Will Be Received by President.

Secretary of Agriculture William Jardine will be the principal speaker this morning at the closing session of the three-day conference of the National Dairy association with the Department of Agriculture.

Dr. J. H. Mohler, of the bureau of animal industry, will also address the meeting, which will be held in the bureau of agricultural economics conference room.

The delegates will be received at the White House by President Coolidge at noon today.

The session yesterday were devoted principally to a study of the methods of the agricultural economics bureau in obtaining and publishing dairy statistics and dairy market news information. The dairymen were guests of the bureau at its experimental farm at Beltsville yesterday morning, where experiments now being made in increasing the productive life of the dairy cow were explained.

HOUSE REFUSES 50-50 PARKWAY PROJECT PLAN

Turns Down Senate Amendments to Rock Creek-Potomac Measure.

ZIHLMAN LOSES HIS PLEA

Despite the efforts of Chairman Zihlman of the House District committee, the House refused yesterday to agree to the Senate amendments to the Rock Creek-Potomac parkway bill providing that the Federal government should contribute half the cost. The bill went to conference.

Mr. Zihlman pointed out that when the project was first authorized Congress had provided that it be carried out on a 50-50 basis.

It is not right to make the local taxpayers pay for all of the schemes of making the Federal City beautiful, Mr. Zihlman declared, asking whether Congress would require the local taxpayers to pay for a thoroughfare which it had constructed from the Capitol to the Union station.

Pointing out that a bill has been passed creating the National Capital park planning commission, with authority to acquire land in Virginia and Maryland, Mr. Zihlman asked if it was the mind of Congress to make Washingtonians pay half for all the land acquired in those two States and the whole of property acquired in the District.

Representatives Madden, of Illinois; Cramton, of Michigan, and Blanton, of Texas, opposed Mr. Zihlman. Representative Underhill, of Massachusetts, supported him, contending that Congress' park policy in the Capital is penurious.

ACREE ASKS $15,000 IN SUIT FOR DAMAGES

Automobile Livery Co. Made Defendant by Morgan; Woman Sues for $3,000.

Alleging breach of contract, Solomon F. Acree, 808 I street northwest, filed suit yesterday in circuit court against H. W. Bennett and Francis J. LaMotte to recover $15,000 damages. The suit concerns an alleged agreement by the defendants in connection with the organization of a corporation to make and sell chemicals under patents owned by the plaintiff, Attorney F. S. Key Smith appeared for Acree.

Harry E. Morgan, of Bethesda, Md., sued the Automobile Livery Co., and Snowden Dove for $10,000 damages for alleged personal injuries. Through Attorneys Ashford & Sheehy the plaintiff says that he was injured on "Conduit" road on April 20, 1925, in collision between a truck owned by the livery company and a touring car owned by Dove.

Ida G. Grantham sued Howard R. Moriarty and Ida P. Moriarty for $3,000 damages for alleged personal injuries. Through Attorney Henry H. Snelling the plaintiff says that on April 17, 1925, while near the car stop at the Peace monument she was struck by an automobile owned by one or both of the defendants.

HOUSE REINSERTS HOWARD PROVISION

Appropriation for University Allowed in Department of Interior Bill.

By a vote of 68 to 22 the House agreed yesterday to the action of the Senate in reinserting provision for Howard university in the Interior Department appropriations bill.

Representative Hare, of South Carolina, charged that some of the money appropriated for the university was being used for purposes other than those for which Congress intended. Representative Lowrey, of Mississippi, and Byrns, of Tennessee, opposed the item.

It was supported by Representative Blanton, of Texas, and Cramton, of Michigan. Mr. Blanton said that it was not his custom to agree to appropriations for projects for which there is no legislative authority, but that Howard university was one worthy cause which should be supported.

W.C.T.U. Urges More Enforcement Talks

There should be more speakers on law enforcement and related subjects at the public schools, especially the high schools, the Mount Pleasant W. C. T. U. declared in a resolution made at a meeting yesterday afternoon held at the home of Mrs. Wayne B. Wheeler.

The women presented flowers to Mr. Wheeler in recognition of his work. Mrs. Raymond Dickey played the violin, accompanied by Mrs. Chester A. Dickey. Mrs. James M. Doran, president of the organization, presided.

WEST GEORGETOWN MERCHANTS APPEAL FOR PARKING LIMITS

Group Is Given Hearing by Board Through Intervention of Representative.

USING OF TRANSFERS
AS STOPOVERS RESENTED

Army Officers' Control of the District Affairs Is Condemned.

West Georgetown merchants, through a committee headed by R. H. Phillips, yesterday made four demands for improvement to the District board of commissioners in public hearing in Commissioner Frederick A. Penning's office.

The hearing had been called after intervention by Representative Campbell, of Pennsylvania, who had been appealed to by the merchants, who said Lieut. Col. J. Franklin Bell, engineer commissioner, had refused them a public hearing. In their letter to Representative Campbell the merchants objected to government by army officers, saying:

"We desire to state to you that it is unfortunate for the people of the District that United States army officers are designated to conduct some of the civic affairs of this District. Military rule is by no means acceptable to American people."

All-Day Parking Objected To.

The principal complaint of the merchants had to do with parking of automobiles. They said that the widening of M street had benefited only the Capital Traction Co., keeping vehicles out of its car tracks, but that motorists had taken advantage of the broader roadway to park their cars all day in front of merchants' stores.

They wanted a vacant space adjoining the District approach to Key bridge used, at least temporarily for parking cars and they asked to have a public convenience station erected there. The land has been held for park purposes to beautify the approach to the bridge. They also asked to have suitable parking regulations enacted for M street. The commissioners referred this request to their director of traffic.

The Georgetown men also asked to have street car transfer arrangements changed. They said that Virginia residents using westbound cars of the Capital Traction Co. can get transfers and stop to shop in Georgetown, then proceed across the Key bridge in Rosslyn street cars, without paying another fare, but that no such transfers are granted to eastbound passengers. The commissioners said this would have to be taken up by them sitting as public utility commissioners in a public hearing with 10 days' notice to all concerned.

Stopovers Are Violation.

It was stated after the hearing by officials of the public utilities commission, that the transfers referred to state on their faces that they are not stopover checks and it is a violation of regulations for holders of them to stop and shop. They are issued at the Key bridge only by street cars not crossing the river, to permit passengers to change to Rosslyn cars.

The half-cent toll collected from each street car passenger for crossing the Key bridge also was objected to by the Georgetown men. When told that there was a bill pending before Congress to abolish the toll, the Georgetown men said that the bill had been recommended by the commissioners, they said passengers never should have been made to pay it. That the act of Congress said the street car company should pay half a cent per passenger and that the public utilities commission should not permit the company to collect it from passengers.

After Mr. Phillips had presented the case, L. Weinstein told in detail how the business operations are interfered with by parked cars and added that the lack of transfers from eastbound cars also prevented Virginians from shopping in Georgetown. Mr. Weinstein said business in the store he manages had fallen off 60 per cent since the widening of M street, due to lack of proper parking arrangements.

All of the questions raised by the merchants were taken under advisement by the commissioners.

Liberty Bell Stamp To Be Placed on Sale

A special model liberty bell 2-cent stamp, designed in commemoration of the sesquicentennial exposition to be held at Philadelphia, will be offered for sale at the Washington, Boston and Philadelphia postoffices May 10, according to an announcement yesterday by Postmaster General Harry S. New.

An issue of 200,000,000 has been authorized. The new stamp is of the same size as the special delivery stamp. The words "Sesquicentennial Exposition" appears across the top of the stamp in a stylized outline. Four ornamental columns support in the middle a picture of the liberty bell.

6,000 Boy Scouts Coming for Council

Six thousand Boy Scouts from all sections of the nation are expected to arrive in Washington to take part in the sixteenth annual meeting of the National Council of Boy Scouts of America, to be held here April 30 and May 1.

Patrols dressed in the uniforms of each of the nations in which the scout movement is organized will be a feature of the gathering. The boys will march on the Ellipse Saturday afternoon, May 1, where President Coolidge will review and pose with them for photographs.
